Scenic Stream on West Road Route

Police Probe 11th Sawmill Fire in B.C.

Fourth Mill Burns In Fraser Valley

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Fire officials and police doubled their efforts to locate a suspected arsonist today following the fourth sawmill fire to break out along the Fraser River here within a month, the 11th in the province this summer.

A raging fire Tuesday night destroyed the Sunset sawmill and caused damage estimated around $50,000.

The Fraser district fire could be seen from most high points in the city. Firemen attempted in vain to learn cause of the blaze but got nowhere.

A firebug was being sought in connection with the three previous blazes, but no clues had been uncovered.

Fisherman Jack Wilson spotted last night's one-alarm blaze while he was tending his boat in the Fraser River. Nearby residents reported smelling smoke for some time before the flames shot skyward.

The mill, operated by the Mielke Brothers Trucking Co., had been shut down for a lay-off, but was scheduled to reopen soon.

JET TAKES OFF, LANDS FROM BELLY OF BOMBER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Air Force says it has fitted the long-range B36 bomber for a new role:

Taking off with an F84 jet plane in its cavernous belly, carrying it to within striking distance of a target, releasing the fighter for a strike, at more than 600 miles an hour, and then recovering it in midair.

The air force Tuesday released for the first time photographs of the B36 in its mother role.

Other sources pointed out that if the big bomber can launch a fighter plane it should be able to launch guided missiles. Moreover, both the B36 and the F84 have been described by the defense department as capable of carrying atomic bombs.

Would Have Final Say on Hydro Job

By GORDON FORBES

The provincial government will hire an expert on soil mechanics to act as consultant in making the final decision on damming of Buttle Lake.

The engineer would act as advisor to E. H. Tedcroft, water comptroller, who must approve plans being prepared by the B.C. Power Commission before construction can start.

The power commission has been under fire on the editorial pages of British Columbia newspapers since a slide wiped out the power station and switching station at the commission's Whatshan project on the Arrow Lakes.

The move to strengthen engineering advice on Buttle Lake is seen as reaction to criticism of the Whatshan mishap.

The B.C. Power Commission has been granted a license to dam Buttle Lake, but first must prove to the water comptroller that the proposed dam site is feasible. Drill testing on the site is now being carried out by Engineering Drillers Ltd. of Vancouver, on behalf of the commission.

Drilling is expected to be completed about the end of September.

The commission will then present its plans and specifications for the dam to Mr. Tredcroft.

Commission Engineers Confident

Although power commission engineers are generally confident that geological drilling will show Buttle Lake can be dammed, the commission will make no decision regarding the feasibility of a dam until a complete report on drill tests is received.

This has been a sore point with the conservationists, who have protested that the rock formation at the dam site is not suitable for dam construction. They contend any dam built there will suffer from excessive seepage.

The commission will have to look elsewhere for a water storage basin if the comptroller rules that a dam is not feasible.

If Mr. Tredcroft gives the commission the go-ahead signal, the commission will then decide, after consultation with its consulting engineers, H. G. Acres & Co. of Niagara Falls, whether the dam should be built under a single contract, under several contracts, or by the commission itself.

A green light for the project will mean that the commission must start immediate construction of a public access road to the dam site. Surveys are now being made. This is one of the conditions of the license.

A short jeep road to service the camp at the dam site has already been built, but is not open to the public.

WEST 'WRECKING PARLEY'

Vishinsky Spikes Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—Russian delaying tactics today forced postponement of the crucial United Nations vote on arrangements for the Korean political conference as Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky accused the West of planning in advance to wreck the parley.

The General Assembly's 60-nation political committee was on the verge of starting its vote when Vishinsky asked for more time to express the Soviet position, already expounded in two previous speeches. Denied a delay, the veteran Kremlin mouthpiece delivered a 37-minute tirade against the West that killed chances of a vote today.

Committee Chairman Joao Carlos Muniz kept the group in session without a lunch break, and then agreed to adjourn because many of the members were scheduled to attend a security council meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Vishinsky accused the Western Powers of preparing an ultimatum to Communist China and North Korea and of "already wrecking" the conference "before it begins."

"There has been no unconditional surrender," he shouted and added, his voice heavy with scorn:

"Do you think you have been victorious?"

Vishinsky's outburst came after the Russians sought to avoid an aggressor brand in an invitation to the conference and attempted, in an obvious parliamentary manoeuver to substitute Moscow's Communist-stacked slate for the line-up of by the Western Powers.

U.S., Britain Talk Possible Aid to Iran

LONDON (UP)—The United States and Great Britain are consulting on the question of aiding Iran in response to the urgent request of its new Royalist government, the foreign office said today.

The consultation is being held through the normal diplomatic channels between Washington and London.

TEHRAN, Iran (UP) — U.S. Ambassador Loy W. Henderson called on Iranian Premier Fazollah Zahedi today and an embassy spokesman said they "discussed all mutual outstanding problems."

The embassy said the U.S. Point Four program would be continued, giving Iran $23,500,000 this year and possibly more money for developing projects.

Informed Iranian sources said that Iran might receive an additional $30,000,000 under the Point Four program.

Long Distance Phone Stoppage Threatens U.S.

NEW YORK (UP) — CIO communications workers threatened to quit work at noon today at the nation's long-distance and overseas telephone exchanges.

The unauthorized walkout by 22,000 long lines employees seeking higher wages would affect long-distance service in 40 states and overseas switchboards at New York, San Francisco and Miama.

Officials of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said service would be maintained by supervisory personnel if union members carry out their threat. The union is demanding a $3.50 a week general wage increase.

Gales, Snow Beat U.S. Bid To Climb K-2

BOMBAY, India (UP)—Bitter gales and blinding snow have defeated an American attempt to climb 28,250-foot Mount Godwin Austen (K-2), the world's second-highest peak, it was revealed today.

Reports reaching Bombay said the Americans, led by Dr. Charles Houston of Concord, Mass., gave up only after struggling to within 2,250 feet of the summit of "the unclimbable mountain." No man has ever scaled Godwin Austen.

Buffeted by 72-mile-an-hour gales and whirling snow, they clung grimly to their perilous perch until they were exhausted.

Then, with the first break in the weather, Dr. Houston was said to have ordered a retreat down the treacherous slope.

Times Reporter, Partner Fight Slash to Open West Coast Trek

(Times Reporter Humphry Davy and a Queen's Scout companion, West Umphrey, have just completed a nine-day exploration tour afoot along the route of the proposed West Coast road. Sponsored by the Victoria Times, the pair set out with a view to ascertaining the feasibility of the road project, to familiarize themselves with the contours and scenery of what is almost an unknown country and to report. This is the second of a series of stories of their adventure.)

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff Reporter

A large map of Vancouver Island was spread out on a table.

"See that trail," said a government engineer, running a thick finger along a dotted line which extended from Jordan River to Bamfield. "That is the route you are going to travel and which people hope some day will be a West Coast road."

The trail, we were informed, was built for a federal government telephone line which runs from Bamfield to Victoria. It is still maintained by linesmen, except for the section between Jordan River and Port Renfrew. This section was abandoned two years ago and the line now runs through a new route which comes out near Shawnigan Lake.

So, with only meagre information about the trail, on Friday, Aug. 14, West Umphrey and I set off for Jordan River. We carried a total of 75 pounds in pack sacks. This included grub, sleeping bag, a tent and other camping articles.

TEN MILES SHORTER

When we arrived at Jordan River we were surprised to learn that a logging road now runs for several miles along the site of the old trail. The road stretches to within three miles of Loss Creek, which is about the half-way mark between Jordan River and Port Renfrew. This meant that we only had to walk about 14 miles to reach Port Renfrew, instead of 24.

We were lucky to run into Don Smith, superintendent of the Canadian Puget Sound Lumber and Timber Co. Ltd. The friendly logger drove us to the end of the logging road.

Mr. Smith got out of his logging truck and pointed to some logging slash. "You will find the trail at the end of that," he said.

What we saw was enough to dampen the ardour of any hiker. Twisted timber, stumps, limbs of trees lay in a chaotic heap. The debris appeared to extend for some distance.

We began to work our way through this maze of timber and for the first time I knew how a fly felt in a spider's web. At times we thought we would never get out of the slash. We went over and under logs and poked our way through narrow openings in the debris. Progress was slow. A blazing sun and heavy packs added to our discomfort.

Finally we spotted a blazed trail and without giving the matter much thought took it. Perhaps we were a little too keen to get out of the slash. At any rate, the trail went up a steep slope and after about an hour's climb we reached a height of about 1,200 feet.

We decided to check our position with a compass and map and discovered that if we continued on the trail we would eventually turn up at Lake Cowichan. There was only one thing to do, return to the logging slash.

TRAIL AT LAST

Another hour of scrambling through slash brought us to the trail we were searching for. From here to Loss Creek we found the walking excellent. We passed many giant cedars and spotted several deer, bear and cougar tracks.

At Loss Creek we were impressed with the high precipices which flank the river. We climbed a steep slope of the canyon and continued on our way to Sombrio River, our next stop. Our chief difficulty was in following the right trail. The map showed only one trail, but we ran across several others. This confused us to some extent. We finally had to trust to our sense of direction.

Late in the afternoon we arrived at a sign post which directed us to take the trail to the right to reach the Sombrio River and Port Renfrew. The government map showed the trail leading to the left. We placed our trust in the signpost. Our decision proved a right one for within a half hour we reached the Sombrio River.

Up to now, we had not come across any great obstacle which could stand in the way of building a road along this section of the coast. The Loss Creek canyon would require a fairly large bridge. Otherwise the terrain differed little from the topography of the east coast of the island.

We wondered what lay beyond the Sombrio, which incidently was a disappointment as a river.

We decided to spend the night in an old linesman's cabin at the mouth of the Sombrio, and to travel the last lap to Port Renfrew the next day.

Bob Fleming Reaches Fourth Round in Golf

MONTREAL (BUP) — The 49th Canadian amateur golf tournament moved through its third round without an upset today with top Canadians and visiting British Walker Cuppers keeping up their unbeaten strings intact.

Gerry Kesselring of Kitchner, Ont., considered Canada's top threat for the title, disposed of Willie Budd of Winnipeg, 3 and 2, and a fellow townsman, Gord Ball, defeated Dick Moore, Vancouver, Vancouver, 1 up.

Bob Fleming, of Victoria, won his third round match from Mike Darling of Montreal 1 up.

Don Cherry of Dallas, Tex., the only member of the United States Walker Cup team here, moved into the fourth round with a 6 and 5 win over Ted Homeniuk, 17, the Saskatchewan junior champion from Yorkton.

British amateur champion Joe Carr, who had drawn a bye in the third round, was nevertheless summoned from a practice green to play Frank Mailley of Allview, Md. Carr won 5 and 4.

Other British Walker Cup players who finished early turned in third-round victories.

They included Norman Drew, the Irish junior champion, who downed A. G. Peterson, Fitchburg, Mass., 3 and 2; J. D. Langley who beat A. Tessier of Quebec City, 1 up; Reg. White who defeated Tommy Riddell of Montreal, 6 and 5; and Lt.-Col. A. D. A. Duncan of Wales who ousted Rex Joudey of Dartmouth, N.S., 6 and 5.

MONTREAL (CP) — Air transport command headquarters at Lachine announced today that an RCAF C-119 "flying boxcar" transport has left Boston with eight iron lungs for Winnipeg.

Naden Band Leads 5-Mile PNE Parade

VANCOUVER — A drizzle killed most of the dazzle, but the Pacific National Exhibition got under way here today with the HMCS Naden band leading the five-mile 117-unit parade through downtown streets.

Vancouverites turned out in thousands, sheltered under umbrellas and morning newspapers.

The navy is taking a major part in this year's exhibition. Five ships of the RCN Pacific Coast command steamed into port Tuesday. They were the cruiser Ontario, destroyer Sioux, frigates Beacon Hill and Antigonish and minesweeper Sault Ste. Marie.

The Sioux blazed with decorative lights Tuesday night, the same ones she had worn to thrill watchers at the Coronation Spithead review.

Tonight the huge PNE midway will compete with the Shrine Circus in the forum, the Hobby Show, tri-service exhibits, manufacturer's and livestock displays in an effort to break opening day records.

Victoria was represented at the 2.30 p.m. opening by Mayor Claude Harrison. Esquimalt's reeve, A. E. Wurtele, also attended.

Prettiest Victorian at the PNE will be Eleanor Anderson, 18-year-old Miss Victoria in the Miss PNE contest. She arrives by air Sunday. The long-tressed Liquor Control Board steno will appear nightly on the PNE outdoor stage.

LATEST IN EUROPE CRIME WAVE

$285,700 in Cash, Gems Taken From Riviera Hotel

ST. TROPEZ, France (UP)—Two bandits held up a swank resort hotel here today and escaped with jewels and cash which police said were valued at 100,000,000 francs ($285,700).

Police said the hotel was held up at pistol point in the early morning hours.

The robbery was the latest in a series of crimes in Europe in one of which a gang of bandits recently robbed the Hohenzollern castle in Germany of the Prussian crown jewels.

Police said most of the cash, in French and foreign banknotes, and most of the jewels, were taken from the office safe of the "Ayoli" Hotel where they had been deposited by French and foreign tourists.

The bandits, both masked, drove up to the hotel shortly after midnight.

Police said the men scaled a wall and entered the room of the owner, Mdme. Suzanne Clos.

They forced her into the hotel office at pistol point and ordered her to open the safe

Before escaping, they bound and gagged Madame Clos and cut the hotel telephone lines.

A nation-wide manhunt for the bandits was ordered shortly after the hotel owner freed herself and notified authorities of the robbery. Police said her description of the bandits was "skimpy" because of the masks they wore and the darkness.

Tory Convention In November Rumored

OTTAWA (BUP)—A general meeting of the Progressive Conservative Party Association "possibly" will be held here in November, President George Nowlan said Tuesday.

He said there was no urgency about the get-together, and he denied there was any "crisis" within the party.

New Clues in Search For Missing Oilman

SMITHERS, B.C. (BUP) — A search for an oilman's plane, missing nine days and carrying five persons, centred around this northern town today following fresh leads from district residents and a para-rescue team was ordered to stand by.

The RCAF said 30 planes had been put into the international search for New Mexico oilman Ellis Hall, his wife and two daughters and a teen-aged friend, Patrick Hibbens.

Two women reported hearing an aircraft in trouble 25 miles west of here last Monday, the day Hall's DeHavilland Dove disappeared while flying from Alaska to Washington state. The area is dominated by Mount Sir Robert, a 9,000-foot peak.

Two loggers confirmed the reports. They said the sound of a twin-engined plane stopped suddenly in the direction of the giant peak in the Rockies.

A U.S. para-rescue team left McChord Field near Tacoma, Wash., for Prince George, B.C., in the interior, where it will stand by waiting to jump to the crash scene if the air force locates it.

Meanwhile, there was no word from a ground search party trekking out of Stewart, B.C., to the wreckage of a light aircraft believed to be that of Bush Pilot Herman Peterson who disappeared Thursday.

CHURCHILL, Man. (BUP)—Crews of 14 RCAF aircraft fretted today as heavy cloud and fog rolled in from Hudson Bay, stalling the search for a Lancaster bomber missing in northern Manitoba for four days. Eight crewmen were aboard it.

GREAT ZOMB WAKES GIRL BY TELEPHONE

BANFF, Alta. (BUP)—Nineteen-year-old waitress Betty Black of Nelson, B.C., came out of a four-day hypnotic trance today after RCMP located "The Great Doctor Zomb" and he treated her by telephone.

Miss Black was hypnotized during a stage show here last Saturday. She failed to come out of her trance, and baffled medical attendants said she had "a consuming desire to sleep."

Doctor Zomb was found by the RCMP Tuesday at Wainwright, Alta., 125 miles east of Edmonton. After contacting Banff physician Dr. A. Costigan, the hypnotist treated Miss Black by telephone.

FIRST TWO TRIES NOT SUCCESSFUL

Piccard Takes Weird Craft Down Below Sea 3,447 Feet

NAPLES, Italy (Reuter's)—Professor Auguste Piccard rode his weird undersea craft more than 3,000 feet down into the Mediterranean here today in a test for an attempt on the world diving record.

The test was the third, try he made today. Two earlier attempts were not successful.

But on the third attempt the professor and his son, Jacques, reported they had reached 1,050 metres (3,447 feet).

Piccard denied earlier reports from the Italian corvette Fenice which claimed success for the first dive.

He would not tell reporters what prevented a full workout on the first two dives. He stayed under for 20 minutes the first time and only three minutes on the second.

Two weeks ago, two French naval officers set a record off Toulon when they dived to 6,896 feet in a Piccard-designed bathyscaphe.

The previous record—3,028 feet—was set up in 1934 by the American scientist William Beebe in his bathysphere off the Galapagos Islands in the Pacific.

Piccard's vessel looks a little like an undersea version of a dirigible. A round steel ball with a single cyclops-eye porthole contains the two men. It is suspended under a large cigar shaped tank full of oil. The buoyancy of the oil keeps the craft on an even keel and floats it up to surface after ballast weights have been dumped.

The whole thing is completely free of any lines to the surface and can move around by means of electrically-driven propellers.

The 69-year-old professor and his son had traveled all night from Castellamare in the Bay of Naples, at an agonizing two miles an hour, as their towing vessel ploughed out under a brilliant full moon with their submarine-like craft wallowing in its wake.

PAINT YOUR HYDRANT, M'AM, BUT MAKE IT RED

WINNIPEG (CP)—The fire department of suburban Fort Garry will let people paint the hydrant in front of their house any color they like—provided it's red.

Officials so informed a woman Tuesday after she redecorated a hydrant in brown with a bright green trim to match her house. The department's workmen showed up promptly with a can of red paint and the hydrant was restored to its customary hue.

Senate Used For Building Sailing Skiff

OTTAWA (CP)—For a time this summer, the Senate's quiet corridors became a boat-building shop. Discovery of the boat touched off a flurry that likely will reach the Senate's internal economy committee.

The partly-finished boat—a 12 or 14-foot sailing skiff—now has disappeared. It was spotted by L. C. Moyer, clerk of the Senate, in a corridor outside the Senate divorce court chambers, little-used when Parliament isn't sitting.

Mr. Moyer promptly launched an investigation which indicates the boat was being built by Senate carpenter Bill West for Rodolphe Larose, assistant Senate clerk, on Mr. West's time and with materials supplied by Mr. Larose. He ordered the boat taken out of the building.

Mr. Larose was away on holidays and not available for comment.

Wenatchee Club Faces Eviction

WENATCHEE, Wash (AP)—Wenatchee Chiefs of the Western International League had an ultimatum from their landlord today: "Pay the rent or we'll lock up the ball park."

Mayor Si Simenson said the Chiefs owe an estimated $2,000 in back rent for use of city-owned Recreation Park. He called on the club to do something about it at next week's city commission meeting — or else.

"If no one shows up at the meeting," the mayor said, "we'll lock up the park and there'll be no baseball played that week."

Frank Dasso, general manager of the eighth-place Chiefs said he'll show up and try to work something out. He suggested that park improvements made by the club be applied against rent.

$300,000 Fire Razes Repair Shop

NORTH BAY, Ont. (BUP)—Damage was estimated at $300,000 today in an unexplained fire that razed the freight car repair shops of the Ontario Northland Railway here.

Flames shot 100 feet over this city's southern residential section Tuesday night as the blaze roared through the old frame building, destroying 15 boxcars and cabooses and valuable repair equipment.

Archie Freeman, general manager of the line, said the railway's entire repair and maintenance program would be "seriously curtailed" by the shop's destruction, and a major program scheduled to start next month would have to be postponed.

He said planning for a new building to replace the old shop would begin immediately.

Striking Miners Demand Back Wages

NORANDA, Que. (BUP) — The United Steelworkers Union threatened to take legal action against Noranda Mines today if the company's 1,600 striking employees were not given two weeks' back pay.

The mine management made no immediate reply. It said earlier the men had missed getting their checks Tuesday because the union "illegally barricaded" the mine entrances to accountants.

The steelworkers replied that the payroll staff could go in if they wanted, and charged that "no preparations at all" had been made to pay the strikers on their regular payday.

Deputy Sheriff J. J. R. Desmeules served a letter on mine manager C. E. Anderson late Tuesday giving him 24 hours to deliver the checks.

The mine immediately issued a statement saying the accounting staff could not deliver payment for the first two weeks in August because they were barred by 400 pickets.

Pat Burke, regional director of the steelworkers, said that "all pickets were notified to watch for the payroll staff and to make sure that no encumbrance whatever was put in their way to entering the property."

TIMMINS, Ont. (BUP) — Some 250 men at Delnite Mines joined the ranks of striking miners in the Porcupine gold field today, and union spokesmen said other mines might follow suit.

The Delnite workers voted to strike late Tuesday night after a breakdown in negotiations between mine management and Local 100 of the Porcupine Mine Workers' Union, an affiliate of the CIO United Steelworkers

ORDEAL OVER — After 27 days of wandering, starvation, sickness and torment by insects in the rough bush country around Moose Lake in northwestern Manitoba, Robert Buck, 18, is recovering in a Winnipeg hospital. The Metis youth, who speaks only Cree, said he did not doubt for a minute he would find his way back to civilization. (CP Photo).

AMID ODOR OF FISH 'N' CHIPS

Peer, Whose Ancestors Sailed With Drake, in Barge Business

LONDON (Reuters) — The odor of fried fish and potatoes hungover the bent head of his lordship. Angry flies settled on his sloppy jacket and stained tie.

But Jestyn Reginald Austen Plantagenet Philipps, 36, second Viscount of St. Davids, was too busy with his pencil stub to notice. He was totting up the results of his latest business venture, sailing three excursion barges on London's canals.

For a man whose family tree has sprouted aristocrats since 1087, Lord St. Davids, 14th baronet in the family line, hardly fits the story-book picture of a peer. His long, angular frame rests on a shaky kitchen chair at Jacqueline's Cafe, a smoky canal-side "eater" where he conducts his business.

Like many British blue-bloods, he has been forced out of his castle through high upkeep costs and taxation and is trying to make an honest living.

His lordship says the two-month-old barge venture has proved a "jolly good success" in that it is not losing money.

The tourist season is now tapering off, but the Oxford-educated Lord hopes to show a profit next year. His three barges take sightseers up the 10-mile-long Regents and Grand Union canals, winding through London and its suburbs, for $1 a head.

His father, who grew up in a more prosperous era for the peerage, was a wealthy financier who probably would take a dim view of his son's venture. But the present viscount thinks its a great idea, not just the lark of a playboy-peer, as some members of society claim.

"I am trying to make a living," he says earnestly. "I've always loved the water, and I've spent a good deal of my life on it. I think there's money to be made from these canal trips."

The viscount, whose ancestors sailed with Sir Francis Drake, served with the Royal Navy in the Second World War. With his Australian-born wife and five children he lives on a small yacht, anchored not far from the House of Lords where he sits as a Labor peer.

His castle in Pembrokeshire, complete with ghost, is rented sometimes to tourists, sometimes to farmhands. When the viscount goes up there for a vacation he lives in a cottage on the grounds.

Lord St. Davids has written several books on London's intricate canal system and flies off the handle at mention of archaic laws controlling its traffic.

"Take the steam five laws," he said, his grey eyes flashing through the steam of frying fish. "They're ridiculous, ridiculous, they're positively Gilbert and Sullivan. Much too complicated to explain."

One of them demands certain precautions in case a boat springs a leak and begins to sink.

"The water in the canal is about four and one-half feet deep," the viscount said. "My problem is to keep the barges from becoming stuck in the mud rather than worrying about their sinking."

NO MORE 'QUAKES FOR 40 YEARS?

Greek Expert Studies Shattered Ionian Isles

ARGOSTOLION, Greece (AP)—A Greek earthquake expert warned the upheaval-harassed Ionian Islands today they may get more such "catastrophic" quakes—but probably not for 40 years.

The prediction was made by a seismology professor, Angelo Galanopoulos, who is touring the stricken islands of Kefallinia, Ithaca, and Zakinthos. An estimated 1,000 persons were killed and 130,000 made homeless by vast quakes which devastated the three islands two weeks ago.

Shortly before the professor made his observation, the islands were rocked by new tremors, the worst since the first big quakes.

The new shocks knocked down walls of partly destroyed buildings, killing three Italian demolition workers in one structure.

Greece's King Paul and Queen Frederika continued their tour of the disaster area today, despite the new tremors.

Relief headquarters announced that anti-typhoid injections have been given to virtually all survivors in major towns and now will be administered to inhabitants of villages.

FRENCH PLAN MOROCCAN REFORMS

Greater Home-Rule Under New Program

PARIS (UP)—The French government announced today it will institute sweeping reforms and grant increased independence to Morocco and Indo-China in a drive to stem rising tides of anti-French nationalism in those troubled lands.

The cabinet designated a high-powered commission, headed by Premier Joseph Laniel himself, to negotiate new agreements giving greater home-rule to the associated states of Indo-China.

It also heard Foreign Minister Georges Bidault outline "vast new reforms" planned for the Moroccan protectorate.

Negotiations looking to the pacification of dissident elements in Indo-China will be held in Paris, beginning in early autumn. Some of the preliminary discussions already are under way with Cambodian representatives in Pnom Penh.

Information Minister Emile Hughes told Paris newsmen that the full cabinet will be asked to approve the Moroccan reforms program within two weeks.

Both steps will be intended to answer foreign criticisms of French colonialism.

Police Say Steno Admits Slaying Girl

NEW YORK (AP)—A sobbing Massachusetts stenographer, after hours of protesting her innocence, early today admitted the slaying of her former boy friend's teen-aged sister, Massachusetts police officers said.

Detective David Murphy, a Massachusetts state trooper, said pretty Mildred McDonald, 25, had signed a written statement admitting she shot Mary di Rocco, 14, in the di Rocco home in Somerville, Mass., Monday.

Miss McDonald, also of Somerville, was taken into custody here Tuesday night near Times Square.

Police in Somerville started a search for her soon after the body of the teen-ager was found Monday. The slain girl had suffered five bullet wounds, her throat was slashed, and her clothing was covered with oil. Police said the slayer apparently had tried to set the body afire.

Miss McDonald had been dated for three years by one of the slain girl's brothers, Joseph. He married another girl last April.

New York police said Miss McDonald said she came to New York Monday afternoon.

Bereaved N.Z. Family Due Here for Funeral

Funeral services for Mrs. Jessie Gladys Scott, originally to have been held Tuesday, were canceled.

They were canceled for three weeks pending the arrival of the family from New Zealand.

She was the widow of Ernest H. Scott, president and founder of the famous Scott Radio Corporation, Chicago.

The first successful automobile trip across North America was made from San Francisco to New York in 1903.

Their Weapons Are Words

Hammering hard at each other over the make-up of the political conference to discuss Korea, U.S. ambassador to the UN, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., at left, and Russia's Andrei Vyshinsky are seen above in fine oratorical form as they addressed UN political committee in New York. The United States wants to keep the conference as far as possible confined to a discussion of the Korean question. Russia, however, wants to widen the conference scope to include discussion of all Far Eastern problems and to invite a number of neutral nations to participate. Lodge scoffed at the Soviet resolution concerning the composition of the political conference—the motion naming the 11 nations. He called it an "undemocratic motion which tries to put some nations in second-class compartments."

PROSPECTOR MAIN WITNESS IN GASPE CASE

GASPE, Que. (BUP) — An inquest into the bushland slaying of three American bear hunters will be reconvened here Thursday, Dr. Lionel Roux, district coroner, announced today.

The coroner said prospector Wilbert Coffin, 37, now being held by provincial police, would be the main witness. Coffin was believed to have been the last person to see the hunters alive before their bear-mauled bodies were found in the bush early in July.

He said other witnesses would include Mrs. Mary Lindsey, of Holidaysburg, Pa., whose husband, Eugene, 47, and son, Richard, 17, were slain along with Fred Claar, a 19-year-old companion. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Claar also were expected to testify.

Teachers Find Homes in B.C. By Loan Plan

QUALICUM BEACH—Teachers' Housing Co-operative of the B.C. Teachers' Federation has provided accommodation for more than 40 B.C. teachers since its organization two years ago, delegates at the B.C. Teachers' Federation workshop here were told Tuesday.

R. R. Smith, president of the association, said the plan helped to alleviate the current teacher shortage.

Poor accommodation and excessive housing costs have forced many teachers to move from one locale to another and have caused many to leave the profession, he said.

The association is a building loan company with the bulk of financing provided by loan certificates purchased by teachers and paying 6 per cent interest. It has provided houses faster and with easier financing than through other channels and at no greater cost.

POLICIES UP TO THE PEOPLE

Kinsey Defends Study of Sex

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (UP)—Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey today defended his controversial sex studies as the findings of a scientist and said they were not an attempt to change or reform American sexual behavior.

The greying University of Indiana zoologist, author of the Kinsey reports on male and female sexual habits, would make no direct answer to criticism of his latest work, "sexual behavior in the human female."

"We do not propose or advocate any policies, sexually or otherwise," he said in a news conference here Tuesday. "We are scientists. When it comes to social policy it is up to the people themselves."

Kinsey made his remarks before addressing a near-capacity audience at the Greek theatre here on behalf of the Southern California Society for Mental Hygiene.

The scientist denied that the clergy was united in opposition to the publication of his latest work. He said he received active co-operation from every denomination, but admitted that individuals in every denomination had either declined or denied cooperation.

DEGRADING SCIENCE

Kinsey's findings, based on a survey of more than 5,000 women, have been criticized with varying intensity by many churchmen since reviews of the book appeared last week.

A Roman Catholic archbishop in Indiana accused him of "degrading science."

Tuesday a noted churchman said in New York that Kinsey's study was a minority report which slighted the 59 per cent of the American people who are church members.

The Rev. Paul L. Tilden, associate director of the department of pastoral services for the National Council of Churches of Christ, said there was a danger that the scientifically untrained might take Kinsey's "generalizations" as facts to condone their personal license.

"I'm sure that if he went into the active youth organizations of the church . . . he would find his figures wrong," the Rev. Tilden said.

The facade of the cathedral of Rheims, founded in 1211, is one of the masterpieces of the Middle Ages.

UK Trade Unions Would Slow Down On State Control

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's 8,000,000-member Trades Union Congress has soft-pedaled some of the official Labor party's new nationalization plans and warned against the incidental risks of extending state control.

In a report to members Tuesday, the general council, the governing committee of the TUC, made it clear to the Labor party, whose purse-strings it controls, that it is not prepared to leap boldly into new nationalization ventures.

"The case for public ownership and control should be constantly related to the over-riding need to improve our economic position in the world," the council said.

It backed the Labor party's proposal to nationalize water supplies, but called for caution and further investigation of plans for major industries, including aircraft and chemicals.

The report foreshadowed a major clash when the Labor projects—some of which reflect the influence of Aneurin Bevan's left-wingers—are debated at the party's annual delegate conference in September. Earlier, the TUC membership will have a discussion on the proposals at its own annual delegate conference.

Fatal Slide Under Probe

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (BUP)—Canada's deepest coal mine was closed indefinitely today as authorities sought the cause of a giant rockslide that killed two miners and temporarily trapped nine others.

The nine were hauled to safety late Tuesday after a jarring "bump" sent tons of rock and coal crashing at the 4,000-foot level of the Cumberland Rail and Coal Co. No. 2 pit.

There were 250 men in the pit at the time. Shiftmen Charles Paul, 55, and Douglas Davis, 35, both of Springhill, failed to jump clear of the slide and were crushed to death.

Davis' brother, Andrew, lost his life in the same mine last winter when a similar bump occurred.

Springhill was shaken by the bump, which occurred about 1.30 in the afternoon. Then the mine whistles shreiked out and mothers, wives and relatives thronged to the pithead, many of them praying.

Back to the Atom

HAVING PERFECTED THE atomic bomb, invented the hydrogen bomb and conceived the cobalt bomb, which can destroy most or all of human life overnight, a species capable of such marvels should be able to avoid its own extinction by prohibiting their use. Yet here mankind, for all its scientific triumphs pauses in sudden paralysis. Agreement on the control of atomic weapons seems as far off as in June, 1946, when the United States proposed the Baruch Plan and Russia rejected it.

In the Baruch Plan the United States made perhaps the most daring and imaginative proposal ever undertaken by a great power. In brief, it proposed to place atomic energy in every aspect under a kind of world government. An international authority would own and operate all atomic plants. None would be permitted to use the atom in the manufacture of weapons. Its use would be confined to peaceful purposes. To this end the international control authority would not be subject to the veto of any nation in its decisions. Its inspectors would have access to every armament plant everywhere.

This bold scheme foundered mainly on the problem of inspection. Russia has stubbornly refused to allow international inspectors to enter its armament industries and without this freedom of entry obviously there can be no real international control. For the Western nations cannot afford to abandon their atomic weapons until they know for certain that Russia is not making such weapons in secret.

Russia recently has made certain gestures towards agreement by abandoning its demand for a veto on the "day-to-day" work of the proposed international authority but has never agreed to abandon an ultimate veto on the authority's decisions or to full inspection of its arsenals. And it has continued to denounce the Baruch Plan as a trick to undermine its strength.

The real problem here is no mere dispute on technical details. It is a crisis of ideas. There has been no agreement on the control of the atom because there has been no confidence between Russia and the free world. There can be no agreement until each is willing to trust the other.

Under the best of circumstances such trust will not emerge quickly or by some sudden miracle. It will come, if it comes at all, by degrees. When a sufficient degree of trust exists there will be no difficulty in removing the threat of total atomic destruction, which must be feared as much in Russia as anywhere else.

In other words, the settlement of the atomic problem must await the settlement of the larger problem which has split the world into two armed camps. The question—obviously the largest ever confronted by humanity—is whether that settlement can be reached by gradual stages before the trigger of ultimate human suicide is pulled.

The Hypochondriacs

NOW THAT THE CONTROVERSIES of a general election are stilled most sensible Canadians will agree with Mr. Howe when he says that if enough people believe in an imminent depression they can produce it. Mr. Howe sees no economic reason for anything but good times in Canada during the visible future and his views are supported by every statistical index. Nevertheless, he adds that a campaign of fear could frighten people into a curtailment of their normal investment and other spending which, if massive enough, could have grave effects on business.

The actual facts of any democratic nation's economy are likely to be distorted in the excitements of an election, when the government will put the best face on things and the opposition will profess the deepest pessimism.

For example, we were told in the recent campaign that Canada had "lost" its markets in the Commonwealth. Yet in 1952 our Commonwealth trade was at the record level of a billion dollars. Our American business broke all records. Our total exports in the first half of this year were only a fraction below the unprecedented figures of 1952 and by the year's end may equal or exceed them.

It is too often forgotten that Canada, while generally maintaining old markets, is breaking into new ones. For example, Japan is now our fourth largest foreign market, buying over a hundred million dollars worth of goods from us annually. Before the war our markets in Latin America were worth only $33 millions. Last year they bought $560 millions worth of Canadian goods. If sane trade policies are allowed to prevail the world market is capable of unlimited expansion.

Only a reckless optimist or a fool would assume for a moment that the great postwar inflationary boom will continue forever. Already its momentum is slowing down, some basic prices are dropping and competition in trade is sharpening. Canada, the world's third exporter, must meet these conditions and certainly cannot meet them if it continues to raise the cost of producing its exports. But there is no reason, apart from those of a political campaign now over, to preach blue ruin in Canada, to turn a prosperous and healthy people into a race of economic hypochondriacs.

Union House-Cleaning

ACTING WITHIN ITS OWN jurisdiction and without outside pressure, the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada has suspended the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union of B.C. because of that union's Red leadership.

The action reflects the sound judgment of labor in the continued house-cleaning it has carried on during recent years. It has proceeded to free its member units of a type of leadership which has on numerous occasions placed the interest of the working man who pays his dues in a position entirely subservient to other interests inimical not only to the membership but to the country at large.

The suspension of the union does not, in itself, constitute a wholesale condemnation of fishermen who, with relatively few exceptions, are hard-working, honest and loyal citizens of Canada. Nor is it an attack on unionism. Certification is already being arranged for another agency which will give the workers of the industry a clear voice.

The importance of the action is plain enough. It furnishes further proof of labor's determination to deal effectively with a force which betrays the principles of good unionism.

There are, of course, still Communist-led unions in Canada, and unions, even by suspension, cannot be forced to purge themselves of such leadership, provided they accept the penalties of ostracism. But the action of the national body does bring home to union men the fact that such leadership is less interested in the welfare of labor than in allegiance to a foreign cause.

Confidence Slid at Whatshan Too

SINCE THE B.C. POWER COMmission's Whatshan power plant was knocked out by slides, some pressing questions have been raised which can be answered in part only by the investigations of an independent engineer.

Inquiries may determine whether the damage done to the Arrow Lake plant was an act of God or was due to an error in engineering. But in themselves, such answers will not allay misgivings over other projected developments, including the Buttle Lake dam, where conflicting opinion has been expressed.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, president of the B.C. Natural Resources Conservation League, has put himself on record with the definite statement: "If they build this dam at Buttle Lake on hundreds of feet of glacial deposit, I predict that in 10 years there will be a disastrous experience in connection with the dam."

Supporting that opinion are the remarks of Dr. Victor Dolmage, outstanding B.C. geologist, concerning the same project: "I don't think any dam they build there is going to fall down, but I do believe as a result of my investigations that any dam built at that site will allow so much water to pass through it that it will be useless."

The people of Kamloops, who are directly affected by the Whatshan disaster, have noted warnings of slippage at the Arrow Lake plant given before the major mishap occurred. The warnings, dismissed in certain official quarters, have proved justified.

What now of the other projects? Is the official assurance of adequate footings at Buttle to be accepted unconditionally?

A lot of public confidence went riding down the hill with the mud at Whatshan.

BY DAVID BROCK

I MENTION Sir David Kelly's "The Ruling Few" too often. The temptation to quote it endlessly is a compelling one. But there are laws of copyright, and laws against being a man of a single topic, and I'll try to resist the temptation after telling you just one little story.

Brock

Brasenose College, at Oxford, had a very pretty sum in ready cash. But it was all in one bank, and when that bank suddenly went broke and more or less busted right in their face, the Fellows of Brasenose nearly had a fit. The only thing that stopped them from having a fit was that they just didn't have the strength.

Weak and trembling, they called on the Bursar, who was a mild little clergyman, to see if anything could be salvaged from the wreck. "Ah, gentlemen," said the Bursar. "I was about to call a meeting to explain our position to you. I'd heard a few rumors about the bank's affairs, so I went up to Town to see the manager. When I went into his office, I found this man of business reading the Bible. So I knew things must be very bad indeed, and I drew out all our money just before they failed." The fact that the Bursar was a parson more than doubles the flavor of this delightful and illuminating narrative.

THE NICE FIZZY DRINK

TALKING of mild little parsons, one of the dearest of them lives in a town not far from here. A member of his flock told him how to make a nice summer drink from potatoes, and he thought this was a splendid idea, and probably very health-giving, so he got a keg and let the old spuds sport around in it for a while, and then he bottled the stuff. The neighbor had said the drink was "just like that popular soft drink, Frootzy." Frootzy wasn't the real name, of course. The makers of the pop in question mightn't appreciate the neighbor's comparison.

Well, the dear old clergyman lives a very plain and healthy life. But even so, his stomach went wonky on him this summer, and he was unable to sample the drink that was just like Frootzy. Putting anything fizzy into his gastro-intestinal set-up, or anything sugary, would have been courting disaster. However, his grown-up sons sampled it for him.

THEY grew very fond of it, and kept going down to the cellar for more. When their father asked what it was like, they agreed heartily that it was just like Frootzy. In fact, they agreed heartily about anything. You never knew such hearty chaps. Laughing like fools, too. Sometimes they laughed so hard they walked home all crooked. And their eyes and noses were red with laughter. It would have done your heart good to see them.

One hot day last month the clergyman was chatting with his milkman, and he asked the milkman if his children drank much milk, and the milkman said his kids were at the stage where they drank mainly pop, at least in hot weather. In fact, they drank so much, he didn't know which would get there first, bankruptcy or diabetes. The parson said that he happened to have a good many bottles of home-made pop which was probably a lot healthier, as well as cheaper, and he'd be delighted if the milkman would take a few bottles home to the little ones, with his compliments. It tasted just like Frootzy.

FOR years and years the milkman had been making one call a day at the parson's house. One only, no more, no less. But on this particular day he called twice. He called again in the evening. And when I say he called, I mean he called in more senses than one. He called very loud, and he called the reverend gentleman down, and he called him all the naughty words known to milkmen. And he kept on yelling, and nothing would soothe him, or even make him stop for a while. The burden of his song was "Whatsa big idea, ya dirty old sot, getting little kids drunk? I spose ya think that's funny, do you, see pore little kids stagger round and pass out? If you wasn't a reverend with his collar backwards, I'd punch your ugly red nose off. The cops are going to hear about this, ya dirty bootleg moonshiner." And so on. Really, the way he was shouting, I'm surprised the cops didn't hear right inside the police station, which was only a mile away.

THE REAL OLD STUFF

AND talking of drinks made from potatoes or anything that lies handy, let us speak of vodka. At present there is a great fashion for it in California. Its chief advantage is that, being mere alcohol, it is completely tasteless in any fruit mixture. People claim they like this. Of course, when put up in a fancy bottle and sold as vodka, you pay more for it than you would for grain alcohol or "visky blanc" sold as such. But people like that, too.

Harken to Andre Simon, the expert on all matters of the table, especially liquids: "Vodka. The national Russian spirit. It is as nearly 'plain' as a spirit can be, being distilled from the cheapest material at hand, which used to be wheat in Russia, and neither flavored, nor colored, nor matured. It is served very cold and swallowed at one gulp: there is no need for nose or palate to waste any time over Vodka." Very like the Scandinavian Akvavit, in fact, except that Akvavit is flavored with caraway seeds.

Political Balance Changing?

Montreal Star

NOTHING dies more slowly than political thinking and customs. These often last much longer than the political realities which brought them originally into being. Yet they die at last, and it may be that the election of 1953 has produced proof that Ontario is no longer the cradle and forcing ground of Canadian Conservatism. It has been axiomatic up to now that "Tory Ontario" and "Tory Toronto" were phrases of significance. Ontario voted predominantly Liberal only in circumstances of peculiar stress, and the province reverted to Toryism at the first available chance.

The election results of 1953 make the observer wonder. Admittedly the campaign contained no issues of any very great significance, but in the old days, we fancy, Mr. Drew's charges of waste and extravagance, his promise of rigid economy and lower taxes would have been enough to whip Toronto's latent Toryism to white heat. A city always psychologically prepared to vote Conservative, a city whose fathers had, from time immemorial carried the Tory torch, needed only a reasonable pretext to set the bonfires blazing on the hills, and start the alarm bells ringing in the church towers. Instead, what happened? Toronto went lethargically to the polls and voted as it had done four years before. There was no swing, let alone a sweep.

FUNDAMENTAL CHANGE

We suggest to the party managers that something fundamental has happened. To simplify the issue, as newspapers are wont to do, we see a reason for it in the recent census and in the redistribution of parliamentary seats. For 13 years now, ever since Canada began its war mobilization, families have been moving steadily into eastern population centres from the Prairies and the Maritimes. On the prairies the drift has been accentuated by the amazing technological revolution in agriculture. Fewer hands can now produce more food. The surplus hands have got out.

They have gone, we suggest, largely into Ontario urban centres where, joining hands with substantial numbers of immigrants, they have introduced their own political traditions which owe little or nothing to the United Empire Loyalists, the Family Compact and the Orange Lodge which, among other factors, helped to make Ontario loyally Tory. Ontario has been made over by its newcomers who have swamped the old dominant class.

Summed up, what this means is that, as opposed to the old days, Ontario and Toronto are both, from here on in, as fair fighting ground for the Liberals as for the Conservatives. They start even, as against the old days when Liberalism was frowned on as heterodox and the Liberals started with two strikes on them.

If this theory happens to be true, or even only half-true, many consequences of national importance will follow in due course—slowly to be sure, as most political movements are slow, but sure just the same.

CHECKS AND BALANCES

Consider Quebec. This province was not always Liberal by any means. It used to be strongly Conservative, a fact which flowed from the depths of its nature. Its party politics accurately reflected the caution and traditionalism of its people. That situation changed again for various reasons, not least of which was reaction against the Toryism of its great sister province of Ontario. The two together set up a rough system of checks and balances, one weighing off against the other.

If the forces which made Ontario Tory are now dying, is it not possible that the forces which made Quebec Liberal have now also become a bad insurance risk? If "Tory Ontario" has become an obsolete phrase, is it not possible that "Liberal Quebec" has become obsolescent? Might it not be that, if Ontario swings Liberal, the old conservative instincts of Quebec province will assert themselves and that—some day—Quebec will become the Tory stronghold and Ontario the Grit? There is a tendency in politics to set up counter-forces. One-party rule is in the long run repugnant to a democracy. If the forces that have kept Quebec Liberal for a generation are now fading away, is there any reason to believe that the province will continue to vote solidly Liberal? Maybe not.

"THE KINSEY REPORT"

Of what possible value is the much ballyhooed Kinsey Report on female sex behaviour? Surely only another luscious morsel for sex perverts and lovers of filthy literature. One has only to enquire as to what the earlier report on similar male reactions accomplished, to know that this latest publication will achieve nothing worth while; but will probably do a great deal of harm, especially to young people, on a question which is already far too much bandied about and advertised.

CANADA'S TOKEN BOMB

It is evident to people of the British Commonwealth that a new and different approach to world peace must be made. If the hydrogen bomb is the only effective answer, then it is time to use it, and not wait until Russia has stockpiled this most murderous weapon, to our disadvantage. But if peace is our real objective, then we must use the language of peace and goodwill and discontinue this barrage of hate and threat of our economic superiority. "If thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink."

The present stockpiling of food of every kind, which the peoples of the world are in dire need of, is not the way to demonstrate our desire for world peace.

The conference, which was held at Lake Couchiching in Ontario last week, under the auspices of the Canadian Institute of Public Affairs, would seem to indicate that world peace is not possible, in the present state of thinking on economic problems. The wonderfully able and concluding address by Arthur L. Phelps, on the subject "Where Does the Conference Lead Us" is indeed a dark picture.

If free enterprise is going to succeed against the threat of communism, we must commence at once to practice it. Our overloaded wheat fields and elevators and our fixed high prices on grain for forced delivery at the ports of Europe, is our hydrogen bomb in full token. There is no language of diplomacy which can interpret our action differently.

Canada and the United States have an abundance of the good things of life; we have not been devastated by war; our economy is intact. If we do not share our economy with the rest of the world, on a fair basis, then are we not aiding and abetting, and assisting Communist Russia, and not the people of the free world?

MUSIC AND CRITICS

I was very glad to read in a recent copy of the Victoria Daily Times where Ian A. Galliford had taken a shot at Mr. Graham Steed, also an organist.

Mr. Galliford has a perfect right to get after Mr. Steed. I quote one sentence in a recent article in the Organ Loft by Mr. Steed: "We, the English organists will always show them our secrets and communicate to them our ideals if only they are wise enough to learn."

I believe another young organist of this city replied in the press to something which was written in the Organ Loft some time back. The young man I refer to, though born in England, came here as a small lad and was given his organ training by one who has now passed on.

"There is much native home-trained and thoroughly authentic musicianship on this continent at present being devoted to the high service of Christ's church whether in plum jobs or not."

This, which I quote from Mr. Galliford's letter, is something which Mr. Steed should let soak in, because even some of the many people who left the old land many years ago, yes, and some more recent, did so to get away from this kind of rot and superiority.

The great trouble with Canadians, or shall I say British Columbians, is they have sat still too long in taking insults thrown out at them by incomers who have been given plush jobs in Victoria. I put this down to influence used by friends on committees. What else can it be?

The same kind of insult to my mind was thrown out in a local paper on August 2, where a newcomer was appointed temporary director at our high school here. Quoting as follows: "The selection as temporary director was made by the Greater Victoria School Board after a study of available local musicians for the post."

This is a sample of many things which go on in Victoria and have gone on in Victoria for a long time. Canadians, wake up from your slumbers and observe like many of us have been doing for years.

This is your province and Canada.

Not Merely Criminals

London Free Press

Society faces few problems more difficult of solution than that of the sex offender, and Ottawa would do well to heed the resolution passed by the Trades and Labor Congress asking special hospital-jail treatment until these offenders are cured.

Our present system is not only archaic, it is dangerous. The sex offender is handled like a common criminal—which he is not—and sentences are meted out according to the severity of his offence. Indecent exposure may result in a few months in jail, criminal assault may bring a penitentiary term.

MENTALLY SICK

In either case, the root of the trouble is not touched. The sex offender is what he is because he is mentally sick. In rational moments he may even loathe himself for the evil obsession which grips him, but the cure is beyond him. Under our criminal code there is little for him but a routine psychiatric examination—after the offence has been committed—then the months or years of confinement to wound an already injured mind.

Surely a government which spends hundreds of millions of dollars annually on national health and welfare can arrive at a more intelligent handling of our sex offenders than to jail them, leave them alone with their twisted thoughts and turn them loose at the end of specified time. If psychiatry can cure these unfortunates, let them be cured no matter how long the treatment requires. If they are incurable, let them be kept from their fellow men.

THE NEW ART

The digestive process of journalism is coarser than that of art, and we have lived through a period when a coarse digestion became indispensable. The journalist has had the task of accommodating violence to the private stomach and of domesticating the religious, revolutionary and national wars in the private conscience. He has been the intermediary between our private and public selves and, in doing this office, has become a hybrid and representative figure, the vacillating and tortured Hamlet expressing our common disinclinations and our private guilt. For it is typical of the contemporary journalist that his case-history goes with him. Like Hamlet, he travels with his court of private disasters, his ghosts, his Ophelias, even his Rosencrantz and Guildenstern, and though we may often think the sight ridiculous, we must give him credit for attempting the creation of a new kind of first person singular, a new hero, who can "take" the assaults of decivilization.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

Nuthin' To Do

I HAVE been thinking of a piece I read some time ago purporting to be the soliloquy of a thoughtful father at the bedside of his sleeping small son.

In it, the elder was reviewing the events of the day, condemning himself for the sharp discipline he had inflicted on the youngster and recognizing the child's misdemeanor as one of those pieces of minor mischief committed by every healthy boy at his son's age.

Stott

With a little more sentimentality than sentiment, the father was atoning for the child's action, blaming himself for the boy's behavior, and counting himself at fault for failing to forestall the impulse which moved the son.

As he gazed at the youngster, sleeping untroubled and trusting, the parent unfolded his dreams of the boy's future, recalling the deep personal joys he had drawn from his son and projecting his mind to the time the lad would mature and take his place in the community.

COMMON EXPERIENCE

It was one of those pieces that you read quickly and enjoyed. As a parent, you'd felt somewhat the same as the soliloquizing father. You'd known the dissatisfaction of chastizing a child and the persistent mortification which remained with you long after the youngster had spent his resentment and lapsed into slumber.

I keep thinking of the soliloquy because I'm a sentimentalist and I don't want to put myself in the position of a penitent by smacking the kids around during the next couple of weeks.

This is the time for patience, and I pray it may be granted to me. This is the time when school kids on vacation, with nine weeks of holidays behind them and two more to go, reach the zenith of exasperation. The wasps are bad, too. But you can take effective action against them.

In the kids you realize the present orneriness is seasonal. They have had too much holiday. They're suffering from an overdose of freedom. They need a little discipline. And if you've read the father's soliloquy I've been thinking about you're disinclined to see they get it from the end of a piece of two-by-four—not a two-by-four with nails in it, anyhow.

I've listened to critics of modern education decrying the lack of discipline in the present-day school. Maybe they have a point. But at this date in August, school looks a pretty fair settling influence to me and a few hundred other parents in this community. I just can't wait to hear the merry tinkle of the bell summoning the youngsters back to class—the bell or the horn some of the more modern schools use in ill-advised simulation of the early diesel locomotives.

It will be music to us—subdued music which is nevertheless sublime. It will spell surcease from the constant juvenile lament that there's nothing to do. Nothing to do, they complain, having been to the lacrosse game one night, taken in a group swimming party the next afternoon and followed it up with a barbecue gathering the night after that.

Nothing to do, even though the lawn needs cutting, the peas should be given a final picking, rooms need tidying from the accumulation of sports programs, old running shoes, comic books, odds and ends of discarded sewing and knitting. Nothing to do—and the outdoors beckons with the lure of the swimming pool, the fishing grounds, the park and the bicycle trails.

With a thousand things to choose from, there's absolutely nothing to do—but get under adult feet, fret about imagined irritations, play the radio too loud and keep up a steady stream of questions.

THERE IS A TREATMENT

There is a treatment for this disease of inaction, of course—a highly effective treatment, and I've used it on occasion with decisive results. But now I keep thinking of that father smothering himself in self-accusations at the bedside of his sleeping child, and I seek some other form of persuasion.

Patience. I need patience. And after Labor Day my problems will dissolve. But can't help thinking how much better it would be if schools re-opened on September 1.

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Taxes and H-Bombs

THE government analysts are reported to be tentatively convinced that the Soviet hydrogen bomb was an interim weapon, similar to the American bomb tested at Eniwetok in 1951.

If this is correct, the purposes of the Soviet explosion were to gain preliminary data on the hydrogen fusion reaction, and to test the very large atomic bomb that is needed to trigger a full-scale hydrogen bomb.

Joseph

If the Soviets follow the American pattern, as is expected, their first full-scale hydrogen bomb should be tested in 1954. Meanwhile, there are reliable expert forecasts of an early test of a very much larger American hydrogen bomb, with a power that may run as high as 10 megatons, or 10,000,000 tons of TNT.

These facts are enough to establish the reality of the American atomic lead. They sufficiently explain the statement of the chairman of the Congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, Representative W. Sterling Cole, that the American atomic program is still "pre-eminent."

The question is, unfortunately, whether "pre-eminence" matters. According to the American government's official estimates, the Kremlin is now able to cripple this country by air-atomic attack. According to the same estimates, the Kremlin will gain the ability to devastate this country—to strike a knockout blow that will force our surrender to the enemy—within 18 to 24 months.

When the Kremlin has the bombs and the airpower to destroy this country, it will be a very poor consolation to know that we have more bombs than the Kremlin.

The story of how our policy makers have handled this vital problem of the changing air-atomic balance between the Soviet Union and the United States can be allowed to speak for itself.

In brief, when Dwight D. Eisenhower entered the White House last winter, the first thing he found was a warning of grave danger, and an ambitious American air defense program to ward the danger off. Initially, the President seems to have been much impressed. But the air-defense program was going to cost a lot of money, and a good many Eisenhower advisers tend to think that taxes are more dangerous than hydrogen bombs.

As a result, the National Security Council has been walking up to and backing away from this vital problem for eight long months. The vast accumulation of data left behind by the Truman administration has now been supplemented by no less than three major committee reports.

The Kelly Committee, composed of leading scientists and industrialists, recommended a strong air-defense program. The Edwards Committee, named to assess Soviet air-atomic capabilities, sharply underscored the extent of the danger. The Bull Committee, chosen by the Eisenhower National Security Council to get a "report from our own people," recommended an even stronger program than the Kelly Committee. Those who fear taxes more than H-Bombs were still displeased.

There is a new motto, however—"if you don't like the last committee's report, get a new committee." Consequently a fourth Committee on Air Defense has now been named, composed of industrialists and others whose most conspicuous qualification appears to be total ignorance of the problem.

It all seems to add up to the conclusion that the growing Soviet air-atomic threat is to be utterly ignored, or at best dealt with by half-measures. The whole trend is to give tax and budget problems absolute priority over the problems of national survival.

3D Films Pose Problem

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Are 3-D movies doing a fade-out?

That's a prime question in Hollywood these days. The film industry is wondering if the 3-D films—the ones that give a depth illusion with the use of polarized glasses—have lost their favor with the public. Here is the evidence:

BOB

Of the 12 top money-making pictures this week, none is a 3-D film.

Of the 27 features being made by Hollywood companies this week, only five are in 3-D.

This is in contrast to a few months ago, when 3-D films dominated the box office winners and comprised the majority of pictures being made.

Perhaps the proof of the 3-D situation will be provided with MGM's "Kiss Me Kate." The picture will be shown in two comparable cities, one in Texas and one in northern New York. One theatre will show it in 3-D with glasses and the other show it flat without glasses. Business will be compared to see if the added dimension draws added money.

Variety reports "there has been general agreement that the deepies released so far have been more or less gimmick pictures, quickly assembled to cash in on the novelty value of 3-D. The novelty aspects, it's acknowledged, have been largely dissipated, and the public will no longer go for a 3-D film simply because it's in tri-dimensions."

But will the public go for well-made pictures in 3-D? The "Kiss Me Kate" experiment will possibly prove that.

Milton Gunsberg, who started the stereo cycle with his natural vision, thinks 3-D is here to stay. Says he:

"The 3-D pictures, none of them exceptional or destined for high grosses, have done fabulous business and revitalized the industry.

"No great picture has yet been made in 3-D. Dramatically it has not yet been used properly. No test short of that will decide the fate of the new medium.

"Some people have received eyestrain from the pictures because they have been poorly projected. If projected properly, 3-D is good for the eyes and good for story-telling. The public likes it. There will always be a place for 3-D in film programing."

Another arguement for the anti-3-D forces is the business done by "From Here to Eternity" at the New York Capital. The first week's gross was $171,000, a new world's record for a film without a stage show. The picture is flat and in black and white.

"That only proves that pictures of quality do not need anything added," counters Gunsberg.

PRAIRIE ROUND-UP

Sleeping Sickness Suspected Among Horses in Alberta

OLDS, Alta (CP)—Four horses on a nearby farm are suspected of having contracted sleeping sickness. Although the disease has been widespread throughout Manitoba and Saskatchewan this summer, these are the first cases reported in Alberta this year.

Dr. E. E. Ballantyne, director of veterinary service for Alberta, said in Edmonton Tuesday that the government has no established policy in dealing with such cases. Treatment is left in the hands of local veterinarians.

Preventive vaccine for the disease was in short supply when the disease became prevalent in Sasketchewan.

The vaccine for equine encephalomyelitis, as it is formally called, is manufactured in Western Canada only by the University of Saskatchewan. It is made from chick embryo after 10 days' incubation.

Symptoms of the disease include drowsiness among the animals. They fail to respond quickly and often walk around in circles.

$1,000,000 DAMAGE

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (BUP)—Damage was estimated at $1,000,000 today in the wake of a fierce electrical storm that killed a farmer and injured a girl as it flattened rich grain across the province.

The estimate came from agricultural officials who were still in the fields surveying the destruction wrought by the summer's worst storm when it struck Monday at a 100-mile-an-hour clip.

MAGISTRATE DEAD

JASPER PLACE, Alta. (CP)—Police Magistrate Roy Cunningham, a native of Popular Point, Man., died here Monday. He was 63.

Mr. Cunningham was the first police magistrate in Jasper Place. He farmed in the Battleford district of Saskatchewan before moving here several years ago.

SASK. WHEAT INDEX

REGINA (CP)—Hot weather during the last week speeded development of the Saskatchewan wheat crop, diminishing the danger from early frost but increasing the spread of rust, the wheat pool said Tuesday in its weekly crop report.

The pool index of the wheat crop condition now stands at 139 compared with 140 a week ago and 166 at the same time in 1952. The index is based on 100 representing conditions which, if remaining unchanged, would yield a crop equal to the long-term provincial average of 15 bushels to the seeded acre.

WOOD PLANT DESTROYED

WINNIPEG, MAN. (BUP) — Firemen had to battle for several hours in suburban East Kildonan Tuesday night before they put out a $150,000 fire which destroyed a small wood factory.

The Quality Woodwork Co. plant burst into flames at about 9 p.m. Firemen were seriously hampered by low water pressure in the area.

39 Student Nurses To Enter Jubilee

Thirty-nine student nurses will enter Royal Jubilee Hospital school of nursing next month it was announced today by administrator George Masters. Approximately the same number of probationers as started last year, the group will increase the number of girls in training at Jubilee to 190.

BIRTH RATE UP

OTTAWA (BUP) — Canadian births reached a new monthly peak of 37,462 in July, about 1,200 more than in June, the Bureau of Statistics announced today.

Deaths fell to 10,319 in July from 10,796 a year earlier.

Island Digest

NANAIMO—Cedar and North Oyster Ratepayers' Association is preparing a petition of protest against what it calls a "malodorous fog" emanating from the Harmac pulp mill.

In announcing its petition, the association executive referred to the victory won by residents of Richmond, near Vancouver, in having the nuisance of a bad-smelling manufacturing plant removed.

* * *

NANAIMO—Judges of the international photographic exhibition, to be held here in connection with the Sept. 16-19 fall fair, have selected 247 prints of the 849 submitted by 214 photographers of 22 countries.

Among those chosen was a photo by Stanley C. Dakin, Nanaimo, who arranged the exhibition for the fall fair board.

Judges were James A. McVie, Victoria; Dr. Joseph S. Bricker, Vancouver, and Chao-Chen Yang, Seattle.

ALBERNI — With the payment of $1,304, authorized at the last meeting of the city council, Alberni will fulfill its final obligation toward building and equipping the new West Coast General Hospital.

* * *

PORT ALBERNI—City council and officials of the E & N Railway were scheduled to meet here today to discuss rail passenger service.

Representatives will attend from the Alberni council, Alberni Board of Trade and Port Alberni and District Chamber of Commerce.

* * *

PORT ALBERNI — Reports, several weeks old, of a whale cruising in Alberni Canal have been verified several times recently by loggers, fishermen and tugboat men who have seen the monster within a few miles of the city.

Witnesses have estimated its length at from 40 to 60 feet.

* * *

LADYSMITH—Robert Simpson, well-known local fruit grower, has submitted a display of fruit grown in this district for entry in the Pacific National Exhibition in Vancouver.

An annual task for Mr. Simpson, he "scours" the city and district to find the finest samples for the exhibit.

* * *

COOMBS—Mrs. Emily Montgomery, aged 71, was found dead Tuesday night at her home here. A coroner's inquiry may be called. Remains have been taken to Steven's Funeral Home at Port Alberni.

Toronto Police Don't Know How Man Became Torch

TORONTO (CP)—Police said Tuesday night they are still at a loss to know how James McGregor, 25, became a human torch.

Three eight-year-old boys Tuesday saw the man wrapped in flames beneath a viaduct. They ran for help.

When firemen and an ambulance reached the scene, McGregor's clothing was in ashes and his body was seared from head to foot.

Taken to hospital unconscious, his condition was described as critical.

Police said no inflammable materials were found under the viaduct.

Bullet Removed From Head of Fisherman

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Surgeons at the General Hospital Tuesday removed a bullet lodged in the head of Japanese fisherman Shiegura Matsunoga.

The fisherman was mysteriously shot aboard his fishboat at Albert Bay Saturday. Doctors said his condition was good. The RCMP continued an investigation into the shooting.

FREAK FLOWER

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP)—A rose bush at the Dominion experimental station here has produced a rose that is half red and half white. The coloring is perfectly divided, with no shading in between.

Island Man Awarded $1,000 Scholarship

A Vancouver Island man was among seven scholarship winners announced by the Agriculture Institute of Canada Tuesday.

The scholarships are worth $1,000 each for advanced study. On the list was R. A. Smith, of Courtenay.

Mr. Smith is with the department of dairying at the University of British Columbia. He will use his scholarship to work at the University of Illinois on a phase of bacterial metabolism.

He won the Wilfred Sadler Memorial Gold Medal as the head of his graduating class at UBC last year.

20-Club Goal Elusive

Roberts Wins 21st; Matthews Hits No. 40

At least 11 pitchers still nurse hopes of joining Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies as 20-game winners this season, but most of them will need Lady Luck on their side to make the grade.

With less than five weeks to play even Roberts who at one stage looked a good bet to win 30, probably will consider himself extremely fortunate if he comes close to his last year's total of 27.

The strong-armed right-hander posted victory No. 21 Tuesday night 13 days after winning No. 20, by handcuffing Milwaukee on five hits for a 6-1 decision.

Closest to him in either league is lefty Warren Spahn of the Braves who won his 18th Sunday. Five of the other 10 hopefuls worked Tuesday night. Carl Erskine of Brooklyn, Gerry Staley of St. Louis Cardinals and Bob Porterfield of Washington all won their 16th games. Billy Pierce of Chicago White Sox for No. 17 and Bob Lemon of Cleveland was beaten trying for his 18th.

OTHER HOPEFULS

Harvey Haddix of the Cardinals goes after his 17th victory today against New York Giants. The others with a chance all are in the American League—Mel Parnell of Boston and Virgil Trucks of Chicago with 17 each and Whitey Ford of New York and Mike Garcia of Cleveland with 15 apiece.

Roberts' success Tuesday night enabled the Phillies to break even since the Braves took the second game 6-2. Brooklyn split a pair with Chicago Cubs, losing 3-1 and winning 6-5. The Giants beat the Cardinals 3-0 and lost 9-2. Cincinnati won two from Pittsburgh 8-6 and 9-8.

In the American League the Yankees picked up a game on the White Sox and now lead by 9½. New York edged Detroit 6-3 in 11 innings and Chicago lost to Philadelphia Athletics 4-2. Washington beat Cleveland 8-4 and Boston and St. Louis Browns weren't scheduled.

40TH HOMER

Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee hit his 40th home run in the first game off Roberts. He is five behind Babe Ruth's record pace of 60. In the nightcap Lew Burdette, the best percentage pitcher in the league, won his 13th against two losses.

Atkins Hurls No-Hit Game; Oaks Win Pair

By the CANADIAN PRESS

For the record, Seattle defeated Sacramento, 4-1, and Los Angeles shaded Hollywood 7-4, but the games, which cut Hollywood's Pacific Coast League margin over the Rainiers to 9½ games, were overshadowed by a pair of pitching performances at San Francisco, one a no-hitter and the other a three-hitter.

The lowly Oakland Oaks conked the Seals twice, 2-0 and 7-1 and vaulted out of the cellar on the strength of the hurling chores of Jim Atkins and Don Ferrarese.

Atkins, a right hander, turned in the league's second no-hitter of the season in the seven-inning opener. Lefty Joe Hatten hurled the other. He walked Reno Cheso twice and in the fifth Cheso broke with the crack of the bat as Will Tiesiera drove a long ball deep to centre, but Sam Chapman saved Atkins with a sensational one-hand catch.

Lefty Ferrarese kept the Seals hitless until the eighth inning of the second game, but finally settled for a three-hitter. He fanned 11. The double-defeat dropped the Seals a game and a half behind fourth-place Portland.

BOWLING LOOP PROPOSED

Members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles and their friends are invited to attend a fivepine bowling practice at Gibson's Bowladrome Thursday night, from 8 to 10. Object of the practice is to form a FOE Fivepin League.

Best in the Province

Honors are piled up three-deep around Sooke's midget girls' softball team. The suburban youngsters started a great record by winning the Colwood and District Softball League title and followed that up with the Island championship. They then sought and captured the B.C. title in their class, making them the most successful team on the Lower Island at the present time. Front row, left to right, Lynne Elgar, Eloise Nixon, Shirley Shambrook, Diane Duncan, Ruby Goudie, Patsy Smith, Judy Pontious. Back row, R. G. Nixon (coach), Elsie Nixon (manager), Margaret Buxton, Sally Brown, Anne Olmstead, Pat Pednault, Gladys Heathman, Sharon Michelson and F. G. Buxton (coach).

Bottler, Dollins Toss Double Shutout at Caps

Victoria 2, 6; Vancouver 0, 0

There's life in the Victoria Tyees yet.

All but counted out of the Western International League second-half race, Tyees made a loud noise from the league cellar with a double shutout victory over the Vancouver Capilanos in Vancouver Tuesday night.

Bill Bottler and Earl Dollins combined to drub the fourth-place Caps, Bottler winning a five-hit 2-0 victory in the first game and Dollins giving up four hits to cop the second, 6-0.

The first game was scheduled for seven innings, but went eight before the Tyees won, as Vancouver ace Pete Hernandez matched Bottler for the regulation distance. The victory was Bottler's ninth against 12 losses while Hernandez went down to his ninth loss against 15 wins.

PAY-OFF PUNCH

Hernandez got the first two men out in the first extra inning but Lu Branham walked and scored behind successive singles by Bob Moniz and Cec Garriott and Don Pries chased Moniz in with an insurance run by doubling.

Dollins, who gave up only one run in his previous game, held the Caps to four scattered hits in the second game as the Tyees made the most of eight blows they collected off three Vancouver hurlers.

It has been announced by the front office that the club will not play any Sunday games, as had been tentatively planned. It was also learned that pitcher Ben Lorino has left for California because of his mother's illness.

BOXLA PRACTICE

Victoria Box Lacrosse Association Juvenile B team will practice at Stevenson Park Thursday morning at 10. Association bantam team will have a workout Saturday at 10.30.

Gasmen Trim Students Play B.C. Final Friday

The Vic Van Isle Kinsmen Polio Fund received a boost from the Senior A Men's softball league Tuesday night at Central Park.

Capital City Gasmen and Chinese students donated the entire proceeds of their two exhibition games and a tidy sum of $92.17 was turned over to Gordy Butterfield, president of the Vic Van Isle Kinsmen.

Gasmen won the series in straight games, winning the first on Thursday 4-2 and finishing on top Tuesday, 9-1.

Victory marked the fifth straight post-season series win for Gasmen and they added another cup to their collection when the Polio Fund trophy was presented to them after the game.

Coach Joe Bryant elected to give his team another stiff workout in preparation for the forthcoming B.C. finals and he used everyone available.

Ab Weibe went four innings, allowing one hit and the lone Students' run. Bryant went two innings and was reached for a single, and Norm Martin finished up with another one-hit effort over the final three innings.

Bud Ross and Stan Tenning split the game for the Students with the former being charged with the loss.

Gasmen also received word Tuesday that they play their first game in the B.C. finals under the lights in Vancouver's Capilano Stadium Friday night. As yet no opponent has been named in the double-loss elimination tourney for the B.C. championship.

COAST 'DELIGHTFUL' BUT NOT MAJOR LEAGUE

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (BUP)—St. Louis Browns president Bill Veeck, who is seeking a new location for his club, indicated today that neither Los Angeles nor San Francisco stand a chance of getting the Browns.

Veeck, who returned here Tuesday from his second trip to the west coast in three weeks, said he found the two California cities "delightful."

"But I don't think they are for us," he added.

He indicated that the American League would never permit only one club to move to the west coast.

Veeck said the purpose of his most recent trip there was to give a fuller report to the league committee appointed to help him move the Browns. Moves are under way in Toronto, Montreal and Baltimore to get the franchise.

Farmers Near Title; Forbes Stops Eagles

Farmers 6, Eagles 3

The curtain could fall on local Senior Amateur Baseball League play at Royal Athletic Park tonight.

Tuesday night Farmer Construction took a 2-1 lead in games in its best-of-five play-off championship series by beating Eagles, 6-3, and the league champions could end it all tonight with a victory in the fourth game. Starting time is 6.30.

Righthander Norm Forbes, who hurled Farmers to victory in the first game of the series, again stole the spotlight with a neat six-hit pitching performance.

Forbes gave up only three safeties in the first seven innings, two coming in the fifth. He was in control throughout, although giving up two runs in the eighth. He struck out eight while walking two.

COSTLY ERRORS

Tom Foster turned in a meritable mound chore for Eagles, but his effectiveness was hampered by errors which figured in all but one of Farmers' runs. Foster gave up eight hits while walking an identical number and striking out three.

Farmers took a 3-0 lead in the second frame on singles by Doug Stewart and Stu Mitchell coupled with two errors. They added one more in the third on Mitchell's second run-scoring single and then applied the clincher with a two-run outburst in the seventh.

Mitchell and Stewart paced Farmers' attack with two singles each while Foster led Eagles with two singles.

Farmer Constrct.	031 000 20x	6	8	2

Sons, Irish Reach Point of No Return

Severson Awarded Maitland Cup

The lacrosse season ends for someone tonight, but Whitey Severson stands to win no matter what happens.

Victoria Shamrocks take on Nanaimo Native Sons in the deciding game of the best-of-five Intercity Lacrosse League semifinal series at Memorial Arena and Severson will have a large share of the spotlight to himself.

The oft-honored Shamrock captain was named Tuesday night as the 1953 winner of the Intercity League's Maitland Trophy, awarded each year to the player deemed most valuable to his team.

Thus Severson moves into the elite circle of former winners which include Arnie Ferguson, Jackie Northup and Stan Joseph. The trophy will be presented to him at half-time tonight.

Last week Severson, who won the league scoring championship, received a silver tea service for being named the most popular Shamrock and the George Blackstock Memorial Trophy as the most valubale Shamrock. He also leads voting in The Times Amateur Athlete of the Year contest.

Jack Byford of Vancouver Pilseners was second in the Maitland Trophy voting, New Westminster's Bob Raffle third and Nanaimo's John Lumley fourth.

But by necessity, Severson's honors must take a back-seat to the outcome of tonight's game.

MUST FOR ROCKS

Shamrocks, who figured on taking the series in four games, must win tonight or forget about the Mann Cup for another year.

Unbeaten in 18 games at home this season, Shamrocks have dropped both playoff fixtures at Nanaimo while winning both Memorial Arena games.

Tremendous goal-tending by Fred Fulla, inspirational play by Lisle Scott, John Lumley, Spud Morelli, and Vern Vannater and rock-bound checking have made Nanaimo unbeatable on their home floor.

But the Irish are another team on their home floor and that very fact makes them slight favorites to win tonight's game. The winner meets Vancouver Pilseners in a best-of-seven final series starting Friday night. After that comes the Mann Cup and the Canadian championship.

Rock coach Red McMillan has made two line-up changes for tonight, Al Gill moving back to the third line as Larry Booth, who missed the last game with a sore wrist, will be back to centre the first forward line.

Jackie Thompson will be on defense, replacing Bill Bamford.

Hogan, Nelson, Snead Honored

CHICAGO (AP)—Byron Nelson, Ben Hogan and Sam Snead were named Tuesday to the U.S. Professional Golfers' Association hall of fame.

The PGA announced the trio's selection for the honor by the nation's sportswriters and sportscasters.

They will be honored, along with the 1953 U.S. Ryder Cup team, Sept. 3 in Washington during the national celebrities open tournament.

SOCCER PRACTICE

Canadian Scottish of the Victoria and District Football Association will practice at Windsor Park Thursday night at 7.

CONS MAKE BOOK ON BOOKIE WHO WELCHED

PRINCETON, Eng. (AP)—Some guys don't appreciate a good thing when they have it.

Take the convict at famous old Dartmoor Prison here. He had a nice bookmaking set-up, gathering the race results from the prison radio and doing business by tobacco.

But another con complained to the warden that his bets weren't being honored. The warden and his men raided the bookie's cell and found some betting slips. That ended the good thing.

Now the convicts are betting what the bookie's punishment will be.

FLEMING WINS

Favorites Advance In Amateur Golf

MONTREAL (CP)—Fast picking up speed, interest and the bugaboo of upsets, the Canadian amateur golf championship swings through 18-hole rounds today, and by nightfall 48 aspirants can pack up and go home.

The only thing sure in the next 24 hours of this big amateur show is that there is only one possibility of two of Britain's 10-man Walker Cup team bumping into each other until Friday.

The whole team got through Tuesday's second round intact, but it was a close squeak for lanky Joe Carr, British amateur champion, and Norman Drew.

There were half a dozen upsets in the making all day. The most explosive were those in which Tommy Hunter of Montreal carried Carr to the 21st hole before bowing out and Bob Spence, a top-ranking player of the host club, gave Drew the golf scare of his life with a 20-foot putt that mockingly hung on the lip of the cup at the 19th.

WESLOCK BEATEN

The biggest upheaval came when Gordon Ball of Kitchener defeated Nick Weslock of Windsor, Ont.

Weslock has been hammering on the championship door for half a dozen years. He lost in the final in 1950 to Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver.

Jimmy Wilson of Scotland got by with a 3 and 2 win over J. V. Kerrigan of Montreal, while Gerry Kesselring easily disposed of Dr. Y. Dion of Montreal 7 and 6 and 6, despite a snagged thumb along the eighth fairway. Kesselring, playing from near a barbed wire fence, caught his thumb on the wire.

Walter McElroy of Vancouver, 1951 Canadian amateur champion, had to put on a spurt at the last three holes to win over Marcel Pinsonnault of Montreal, one up. A loss for Walter would have been the biggest upset so far of the tournament.

FLEMING WINS

Victoria's Bob Fleming defeated H. Patterson of Toronto, 4 and 3. Bob Morrison, also of Victoria, lost to K. Corcoran, Osterville, Mass., 3 and 2.

Two provincial juniors were still left. Ted Homeniuk of Yorkton, Sask., who won 3 and 2 over Art MacKenzie of Charlottetown Tuesday, was drawn against Don Cherry of Wichita Falls, Kan., sole U.S. Walker team competitor.

Cockell May Meet Charles

LONDON (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles may be the next opponent for Don Cockell, Britain's heavyweight king.

British promoter Jack Solomons wants to arrange a bout for Cockell in London, Sept. 29.

"If Cockell's manager agrees to the date, I shall try to get a top-ranking American, possibly Charles, as the opponent," Solomons said Thursday.

SOCCER PRACTICE

Eagles first division soccer club will hold a workout at Windsor Park Thursday night at 7.

Anyone between the ages of 16 and 19 interested in playing should contact Fred Magee by phone at E 3329.

FIGHT RESULTS

LOS ANGELES—Joey Cam, 129, Boston, outpointed Rueben Smith, 128, Los Angeles, 10.

TACOMA—Eddie Cotton, 174, Seattle, outpointed Rusty Payne, 176, San Diego, 10.

FAVORED OVER JONES

Gavilan Moves Into Middleweight Class

NEW YORK (UP)—Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan was favored at 13-5 to beat middleweight Ralph (Tiger) Jones tonight and thereby earn consideration as challenger for the middleweight crown.

The non-title 10-rounder between 27-year-old Gavilan of Cuba and 25-year-old Jones of Yonkers, N.Y., will be televised nationally from Madison Square Garden at 10 p.m. (EDT).

Gavilan, ruler of the 147-pound division, is confident that a victory over middleweight contender Jones will give him a shot at the 160-pound crown, to be worn by the Bobo Olson-Randy Turpin winner on Oct. 21. Promoters always relish a "battle of champions."

Despite the 13-5 odds, however, Gavilan is facing an aggressive mechanical hooker who thrives on ambitious welterweights. Jones provided a thundering upset last Dec. 5 when he thoroughly trounced Johnny Bratton, top welter contender, at the Garden.

In three fights this year with welterweight Danny (Bang Bang) Womber, Jones won twice and drew once. Womber caused a mild quake at Syracuse, N.Y., on May 2, by outpointing Gavilan in a non-title bout.

Speaking of Syracuse, Gavilan admitted today he must be careful tonight to avoid any injury that might postone his scheduled title defense against Carmen Basilio at Syracuse, Sept. 18. That's a "good-money" fight.

Brenner Keeps Broncs On Top of WIL Heap

Manager Bill Brenner pitched and batted Lewiston to a 9-7 win over Wenatchee Tuesday night to preserve the Broncs' narrow lead in the Western International Baseball League pennant race.

Brenner scattered 10 hits as he marked up his 21st victory on the mound, and drove in the winning runs with a sixth inning double. The win kept the Broncs six percentage points ahead of the Spokane Indians, who also won.

Lewiston's hopes of maintaining the lead and gaining a berth in the WHL's post-season playoff suffered a heavy blow, however, with Brenner's announcement after the contest that two key players may be lost for the rest of the season. Brenner said catcher Clint Cameron, who injured his throwing hand in Monday's game, probably won't be back. Bob Williams, Lewiston's leading hitter, is scheduled to return to his teaching job at Lewiston High School after Wednesday's game.

Spokane, keeping pace with the Broncs, scored enough runs in the first inning to win but added some insurance tallies and posted a 6-1 triumph over Yakima.

Don Bricker's three-run homer in the top of the 10th inning provided Calgary's winning margin in a 10-9 victory at Tri-City.

LIFETIME SUSPENSION UPHELD

Jockey's Appeal Fails

VANCOUVER (CP) — Suspension of jockey Richard Rossall from racing for life was upheld Tuesday at a special hearing at Exhibition Park. The suspension is effective throughout North America.

The hearing was held before Bert Thompson, western representative of the Jockey Guild, who flew here to investigate the case after the 17-year-old rider from Pleasanton, Calif., was set down for an unsatisfactory ride here aboard Vally Band August 18. He was accused of "pulling" his mount.

In a prepared statement, Thompson said he "must agree with the official ruling that he Rossall shall be ruled off the race track for life."

The statement also said a jockey in the same race gave evidence at the hearing that Rossall had told him of betting $100 on another horse in the race for which he was set down.

Rossall denied betting on another horse and said the $100 had been on his own mount.

"Apparently this boy, only 17 years of age, has become the tool of certain people in racing who should, if we could find them, be sent to jail," Mr. Thompson said.

He added that efforts to discover evidence that Rossall had worked for such people had failed.

U.S. Net Moguls Face Dilemma

By GAYLE TALBOT

FOREST HILLS (AP) — A thoroughly confused group of United States tennis officials are gathered here, awaiting the start of the national championships on Saturday and wondering what, if anything can be done about breaking Australia's strangehold on the game.

They are fresh from watching an Aussie pick-up pair of Rex Hartwig and Mervyn Rose crush the best U.S. doubles teams in the championships at Boston, and two weeks before that they had sat glumly at South Orange while the visitors' singles aces took turns whacking the U.S. boys about. Now they don't know what to think.

"In my mind," said Alrich Man Jr., the head of the U.S. Davis Cup committee," it comes down to whether Tony Trabert can play himself back into the form he had in 1951, when he carried Frank Sedgman to five sets in the nationals here."

NOT TOO PROMISING

Col. Jim Bishop, the president of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, was able to offer no real solution to the dilemma facing the cup selection committee. He conceded readily that things look none too promising at the moment, but pointed out cheerily that tennis fortunes have a way of changing from week to week. He offered no estimate of when they might veer again in the U.S. direction.

"If I had to be pinned down," the colonel finally said, "I would think that our chances of winning the cup back, hinge upon our ability to win three singles matches. Yes, I would favor letting our two best men concentrate on beating Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall and freeing them from responsibility in the doubles."

Back to Man, who will have a prominent voice in naming the team. Yes, he conceded, he and his fellow deep-thinkers were giving considerable thought to holding Vic Seixas out of the doubles this time and permitting him to take his two best shots at the Aussies in singles. After all, he volunteered, a 34-year-old such as Seixas should take things easy. He was reminded that, according to the records, Seixas admits to only 29. "That's right," Man said. "I was thinking of Billy Talbert."

The foregoing will perhaps give an idea of the cool and calculating thought being given to U.S. Davis Cup preparations.

CLARK CONFIDENT

The most solid note of optimism we heard came from Straight Clark, who with Hal Burrows upset Hoad and Rosewall in the U.S. national doubles.

"They can be beaten," he said positively, "by keeping the pressure on Hoad's service. Sometimes he isn't too sure of it. I honestly think we have a good chance."

Fairoaks Square Peewee Boxla Final

Fairoaks scored a close 7-4 victory over Saanich Tuesday at Stevenson Park to even the Peewee Lacrosse League semi-final playoff series at one win each.

Fairoaks' productive line of Bruce McLay, Leslie Brice and Vic Wescott did most of the damage to Saanich, McLay scoring three goals, Brice two and Westcott one.

Scorers follow:

Fairoaks—Bruce McClay 3, Leslie Brice 2, Vic Wescott 1, Wayne Humby 1. Total—7

Saanich—Barry Daniels 2, Don Craigdallie 1, Ricky Hodgkinson 1. Total—4.

Medal Golf Winner

Mrs. T. A. P. Jackson scored an 86 to win low gross honors Tuesday in the Victoria Golf Club's competition for women with handicaps of 15 and under. Mrs. B. Thirlwell won the low net with a 77.

Famed Stunt Drivers To Show at Shearing's

They're here!

Would you like to see two cars crash head-on while traveling at speeds up to 40 miles per hour? Or would you rather feast on a series of hair-raising stunts by the world's best drivers?

Either way you shouldn't lose at Shearings Speedway Thursday and Friday nights when Joie Chitwood's Auto Daredevils roar onto the Cobble Hill cut-off oval at 8.30.

The two-hour show will feature such stunts as rolling cars end-over-end at 60 miles per hour, the flying head-on crash, the ramp-to-ramp jump, motorcycle broad jumps, hell driving, and many other feats of daring.

Another highlight will be the flying head-on crash, with Jimmy Williams, a famous daredevil, racing his automobile down the straightway, zooming up an incline and crashing directly into two or more cars.

Stunt drivers famous throughout America will be behind the wheels of the cars, which are actual stock automobiles—the same type of car driven on the highway every day.

Such well-known pilots as Harry Woolman of Hollywood, Francois PreFontaine of Montreal, Jimmy Williams of Texas and Rhonda Royce of England, to name a few, are slated to see action in the monstrous show.

Every driver taking part will be a "gold star driver." A "gold star driver" is one who has captured the Gold Trophy, awarded by the International Stuntmen's Association, in any one particular event three consecutive years.

Fosters, Tillicums To Renew 'B' Rivalry

Joe Fosters and Tillicums, who waged a pitched battle for the Senior B Softball League championship, will be matched again Thursday night in the first game of a best-of-five series for the playoff championship.

Fosters defeated Chinese Students 6-4 Tuesday night to win their semifinal series, three games to one.

City and Island champion Tillicums have been awarded their semifinal series with Esquimalt Athletics by default. Esquimalt, who dropped the first two games of the series, were forced to withdraw from tonight's scheduled third game because of inability to field a team.

First game of the Tillicum-Fosters series starts at 6.30 Thursday night at Heywood Avenue.

Miss Romack Still Favored For U.S. Title

BARRINGTON, R.I. (UP)—Thirty-two of the nation's top women amateur golfers, who survived two days of highly competitive match play at the Rhode Island Country Club, battled today in fourth round of the National Amateur women's golf championship.

Still in the favorite's role was the calmly confident Barbara Romack, Canadian titlist from Sacramento, Calif., who seems to improve with each round.

With most golfers turning in higher scores Tuesday, Miss Romack shot par in her second round match and one-under-par in her third round to establish herself as the one to beat. She registered a 6-and-4 victory over Maureen Orcutt of Haworth, N.J., after a second round 5-and-4 win over Mary P. Janssen of Charlottesville, Va.

Today Miss Romack opposed Patricia O'Sullivan of Orange, Conn., who pinned a third-round 3-and-1 defeat Tuesday on Elanne Cranston of Pasadena, Calif.

Grace S. Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., rated consideration today after her third round victory over 19-year-old Joyce Ziske of Milwaukee, Wis. Miss Ziske, who scored an upset win Monday over British titlist Marlene Stewart, lost out to Miss Lenczyk on the 20th hole. Miss Lenczky's opponent today will be Mrs. Harold Bycott of Wheeling, W.Va., who defeated Mrs. Harrison Fillipin of Ardmore, Pa., 3 up.

VANCOUVER STILL TRYING TO SOLVE THE RIDDLE

By BOB HUTCHISON

Empire Games Jigsaw Puzzle

The site of the British Empire Games Stadium has been kicked around more lately than a last-place nag on the back stretch at Longacres.

A month or so ago the civic fathers of Vancouver trotted out an overweight Percy Williams and an assortment of various athletes to turn the first sod of the proposed $600,000 stadium at the Pacific National Exhibition grounds on East Hastings.

Monday it was announced that the city fathers were considering changing the site to the new Capilano stadium with a few renovations and improvements. Reason: that this could be done for $1,000,000 compared to $1,750,000 for the new stadium.

Wily manager of Cap stadium, Dewey Soriano, quick to see 25,000 permanent seats at future baseball games, pointed out that 10,000 or more temporary bleacher seats could be added for the BEG and similar big attractions. These would go along the fence from centre to right field.

"As to the quarter-mile running track," Soriano is reported to have said, "it could be permanently installed around the perimeter of the park, with the ball diamond re-situated just inside the track."

The proposal struck with lightning force in Vancouver. Mayor Fred Hume now has asked for a full investigation of the possibility.

Apart from the fact that the games are now less than a year away and that after four years of planning the BEG committee has little materially to boast about, there are worst problems than this to face.

Supposing that Capilano Stadium is used, what then becomes of the half finished mess on East Hastings?

If the plan is considered unworkable, what loss of time in talking will have been consumed?

For the record, whoever saw a baseball diamond with a quarter-mile track around it? Whoever heard of a centre fielder going back for a long ball falling head over heels on the inside lane of the track and ending up with scrapes and scratches plus a mouth full of cinders?

And again it is questionable if the Commonwealth's best athletes wish to run on almost right angle turns to accommodate a baseball diamond.

Speaking for the athletes, it is questionable too if any decent sort of track can be laid in time for the games.

A good fast track should have at least two years to settle. At the present rate Vancouver's building program is progressing, it is doubtful if the BEG track will have 24 hours to settle before the games start.

Understandably, there are many pitfalls in such an undertaking. But surely with four years to work on the job, the BEG committee could come up with something better than the current comedy of errors which seems to be occurring.

It would be a shame indeed if Canada, usually thought of as the senior dominion of the Commonwealth, couldn't make a success of the games. With 10 months remaining, surely Vancouver will be able to get their various committees pointed the same direction toward a common goal.

Roughriders Rely on Rebuilding Program to Regain Former Glory

BY TOM MELVILLE

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Inter-provincial Football Union have only one way to look this season — and that is up. Tail-ender in the four-team loop last year, the provincial club has practically a new cast of imports, a new coach and a number of Canadian additions to go with a good crop of sophomores and veterans.

The railbirds who flocked some 2,000 strong to pre-season workouts are sure the 1953 Riders will be the greatest Saskatchewan threat since football made its remarkable post-war comeback.

But new coach Frankie Filchock, who guided Edmonton Eskimos to the Grey Cup final last fall, takes a different attitude. "If the experts pick up for last place, that's okay by me," he says.

DOBBER RETURNS

Key man in the Rider makeup is quarterback Glenn Dobbs, who was playing coach last year. After the campaign The Dobber said he would be glad to return to Saskatchewan if only to be water boy, and he meant it, too.

Last year was one of economy for Riders, who operated on a $275,000 budget in a city with a population of only some 70,000.

With men of the old guard on the way out and a goodly number of rookies on the roster, the executives knew it was a rebuilding season.

They fully expected to lose money. They chose their imports accordingly. Dobbs took on the dual role of coach and player. Riders won only three games in 16, one at home. Despite this the crowds were the best ever and the club came up with a good balance on the books.

However, Dobbs had a tough season, often trying to lift the team with his own bootstraps. He played despite a leg injury, which reduced the all-star ability he employed when he led Saskatchewan to a losing Grey Cup final against Ottawa Rough Riders in 1951.

This year things are different. The lanky, 32-year-old quarter, who still is Mr. Football to Saskatchewan fans, reported for practice frisky as a colt. And this time he wouldn't have to go it alone. Frank Tripucka, with Dallas Texans last season, will spell him off at quarter. The import list is loaded with class.

Dobbs and tackles John Precheck and Martin Ruby, 1952 all-star, are the only holdovers. For the line, Riders have brought in Ray Collins from San Francisco 49ers; guards John Wozniak from Dallas and Mario DeMarco, all-star the last two seasons with Edmonton; and centre Mel Beckett from Indiana University.

PASSER'S DREAM

The ends are a passer's dream — Mac Speedie from Cleveland and Browns, top pass-catcher of the U.S. pro league last season; fleet Stan Williams from Dallas; John Green from Philadelphia and Joe "The Toe" Aguirre, a former WIFU scoring champion, from Edmonton. Aguirre succeeds Ruby as line coach.

Backfielders include Alabama's sensational Bobby Marlow, Jim Cason from San Francisco 49ers, Dave Skrien from Minnesota and Herb Johnson, former West Pointer who some fans predicted will be the sensation of the league.

Behind these come the sophomores, the Canadian newcomers and the vets to give Riders the depth they have never had before. Dobbs will make the most of that talented array.

Any doubts about Filchock and Dobbs hitting it off soon disappeared. Dobbs takes tips from Filchock, who says he couldn't have a better field general.

Riders, who won 16-6 against Montreal Alouettes and lost 21-12 to Hamilton Tiger-Cats in pre-season exhibition games, open their schedule at home August 29 against Calgary Stampeders in the 12-700-seat Taylor Field. Seats go for $1.25 to $3.75. About 7,500 reserved seats already have been sold for the eight-game home schedule.

It was hoped for a time that Taylor Field would get lights but Regina again will be the only conference centre with afternoon games only.

The club will operate on a budget of about $300,000, with $25,000 of that coming from program sales and $10,000 from a car raffle. Wealthy patrons also will pitch in with $100 apiece.

No Single Remedy Relieves Itching—Causes Are Many

A reader recently requested a column on pruritis. This medical word merely means intense itching. The inquirer gave no further information concerning the location of the cause.

The subject of itching, however, is a most interesting one. It is hard to see how, except in the most unusual circumstances, itching can serve any useful function. Few of us escape the sensation of itching, either in some particular location, or even more or less all over.

WHY SCRATCH

Another interesting thing about itching is why the reaction to it should be to scratch, since scratching, while if often brings a little relief, is likely to damage the skin still further.

There are a great number of possible causes for itching, and only a few of them can be discussed in this column.

Some people itch all over after bathing. Although the itch usually disappears after the clothes have been on for a while, this is a most annoying form of itch. It is hard to know what to do for it, but one lady wrote me that her husband had obtained relief by applying a half glycerine-half water solution on the skin immediately after the bath.

Winter itch is a closely related condition in which people complain of severe itching all over the body when undressing for the night or shortly after retiring. It goes away when the weather gets mild. The skin looks perfectly all right — except for scratch marks.

Insect bites almost always cause itching. Cooties or lice are among the worst. Unlike that for many other insect bites, the treatment for lice is not just to put on some soothing lotion and wait for the itch to go away; lice have to be got rid of or they will stick to the body and multiply.

The seven-year itch, better known as scabies, is another cause of itching. This is caused by a tiny parasite which burrows its way into the skin. Here, too, the parasites have to be killed before the itching will stop.

ACCOMPANIES DISEASES

Hives, or urticaria, always causes itching. This can be recognized easily by the sudden appearance of raised reddish spots accompanied by an irresistible desire to scratch.

Itching of the skin may accompany such diseases as diabetes, Bright's disease, and especially jaundice. In jaundice particularly, the itch is most unpleasant and difficult to relieve; in fact, it often persists as long as the jaundice.

Because there are so many possible causes for itching, no single lotion or ointment can be counted on to bring relief. Severe, long-lasting itching presents a problem of finding the cause and attacking it.

Boilermakers Won't Accept Reduction In Shipyard Wage

Boilermakers Union Local 191 (TLC) has rejected a "counter-proposal" made by two local shipyard operators that a 45-cent hourly pay reduction be adopted.

"The offer was rejected at the last regular meeting of the local," James McConachy, union business agent, said today.

Negotiations between the union and Yarrows Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot were opened early in June. Chief objective of the union is establishment of wage parity with electrical workers, who earn $2.02½ per hour—highest scale in the yards.

Boilermakers' pay is $1.97½ per hour.

Some time ago electricians suggested that the Joint Shipyard Council, representing six affiliated unions, negotiate a standard shipyard mechanic's wage rate of $2.25 per hour, plus standard holiday and other conditions.

Such action, they suggested, would eliminate a wage differential between the electricians and other trades, and thereby remove a source of discontent.

"We're in favor of such a move," Mr. McConachy said. "All we want is parity."

Anniversary date of the boilermakers' contract is July 31, whereas other shipyard union contracts expire Oct. 15.

Mr. McConachy said court action instituted recently by operators to question the July 31 date was "a stall."

Williams May Return Against Kid Matthews

LONDON (AP)—Johnny Williams, former British heavyweight champion, will return to the ring in October after a five-month lay-off.

Williams, who has been troubled with an arm injury, hasn't fought since he lost his crown to Don Cockell May 11.

Ted Broadribb, Williams' manager, said today he hoped Williams would be able to meet Harry Kid Matthews of Seattle.

Duncan Hosts Firefighters' Convention

DUNCAN — A demonstration of firefighting apparatus opened the second day of the 22nd annual convention and fire college of the B.C. Fire Chiefs' Association here today.

The convention is a milestone in the 51-year history of the Duncan department, since it marks the first time that a volunteer company has been host to the fire chiefs.

At 11 a.m. Lieut.-Cmdr. J. Crowther, fire chief at HMC Dockyard, Victoria, gave an address on ventilation.

Maj.-Gen. C. R. S. Stein, provincial civil defense co-ordinator, Victoria, was scheduled to speak this afternoon on the civil defense fire service. Also scheduled for this afternoon was Capt. Gerald Lancaster, Vancouver harbor master, whose subject was fire protecting waterfront properties.

Thursday's program will begin at 1.30 p.m. when Det. Sgt. P. Easter of Vancouver will discuss scientific aids in fire protection. The remainder of the afternoon will be spent viewing displays by manufacturers of fire apparatus.

AUTO WORKERS' PRESIDENT HAS CAR TROUBLE

TORONTO (BUP)—The president of the United Auto Workers' Union ran into a bit of car trouble Tuesday.

Walter Reuther was met at Malton airport by a huge red Buick the UAW sent to escort him downtown. The driver fumbled with the keys, then admitted he didn't know how to start the car. It had been borrowed, and the motor was running when he set off.

Reuther promptly moved into the driver's seat. He couldn't start it either.

A stranger came over and did the trick.

Five Communists Draw Prison Terms in U.S.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Judge Rabe F. Marsh Tuesday sentenced to five-year prison terms each of five Communists convicted of conspiring to advocate the violent overthrow of the United States government.

Judge Marsh said he will not impose fines or court costs on the five, and recommended that one of the defendents be sent to a federal prison with a tuberculosis clinic.

The five men, all convicted last Thursday, are Steve Nelson, former chairman of the Western Pennsylvania Communist party; Benjamin L. Careathers, former vice chairman of the Western Pennsylvania party; James Dolsen, a writer for The Daily Worker; Irving Weissman, former chairman of the West Virgina Communist party; and William Alberston, former Communist labor organizer in the Pittsburgh district.

Counsel for the five men said they will appeal the verdict and sentences.

MONTY LIKED HIS SPEECH

OTTAWA (BUP) — Field Marshal Montgomery, near the end of a long speech to the Canadian Club Tuesday, paused and asked a listener:

"How long have I been talking?"

On getting an answer, he remarked: "Well, it's good stuff, this."

Lord Fined for Penny Theft

BRIGHTON, Eng. (UP)—Lord Glenorchy, 34-year-old heir of the Earl of Breadalbane and Holland, was convicted Tuesday of stealing pennies from a coin box in a public toilet and paid a fine of $14.

Police said they found only sevenpence on the lord when they picked him up.

Glenorchy's attorney recalled the lord's war record and said he was discharged as mentally unstable and "is readily responsive to the influence of companions."

NEW LIFE FOR "LEFT-OVERS"!

Weary food budgets need help these days. Let Minute Rice flatter left-over meat, fish and fowl in tempting main course dishes like this.

Minute Rice is so versatile, too — it's grand served with favorite stews, in curries, or with creamed dishes. You'll love it, in quickly made creamy rice puddings. It's the only rice of its kind.

Pre-cooked Minute Rice needs no washing, no rinsing, no draining, no steaming . . . always cooks to tender perfection, with each grain plump, fluffy and separate.

Supper "Quickie."

FOR RICE RING: Prepare 1 pkge. Minute Rice according to basic package directions. Add 2 tbsps. butter and ⅛ tsp. pepper to the rice; mix lightly.

FOR FILLING: Sauté ½ cup onion rings until tender in 4 tbsps. fat in saucepan. Add 4 tbsps. flour; blend. Then add 2 cups water gradually. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Add 2 cups diced, cooked left-over meat. Season. Fill centre of rice ring with meat mixture. Serves 5 to 6.

Red Cross Team For Allies Saw Few Prisoners

BY JIM BECKER

MUNSAN (AP)—The spokesman for Allied Red Cross teams just back from North Korean prison camps said today they were hampered at every turn and were trailed by "a lot of nasty little thugs with sub-machine guns."

R. M. Jerram of Britain told newspaper men the Allied Red Cross workers were permitted by Communist authorities to talk only to a few prisoners and not one lodged a single complaint. He "strongly suspected" they were hand picked.

Declaring that his report will go to his superiors who may file a protest, Jerram added:

"The general frustration of the whole thing was a result of an aggregate of restrictions, delays and petty arguments."

In the interviews which under armistice terms they were supposed to conduct freely, Jerram said they talked only to a few and "we were not permitted free access to the others."

Returnnig prisoners have said only those who collaborated with their captors were allowed to talk to the Red Cross teams.

IWA Completes Wage Talks With B.C. Operators

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C.'s biggest annual wage negotiation ended Tuesday with an oral agreement by Vancouver Shingle Mills to sign the Coast industry contract with CIO International Woodworkers of America.

The firm was the last of some 150 Coast companies, represented by Forest Industrial Relations, to agree to the contract giving 13,000 workers a basic hourly wage of $1.49, a 14-cent increase.

Agreement was reached between the company and the New Westminster local of the union after a strike vote in the Port Moody plant Monday.

Meanwhile, the IWA prepared for further negotiations with the Interior Lumber Manufacturers' Association.

A conciliation board will begin hearings for the northern section of the Interior here Wednesday and another board will start southern section hearings in Kelowna Thursday.

Vancouver Shingle Mills was one of 33 marginal operators who sought further negotiations after 114 other operators agreed to the increase.

Blind, Children's Hospital Benefit From B.C. Estate

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) —The physically handicapped will benefit under the terms of a will filed for probate here, with a net value of $287,800.

The estate is that of the late Donald W. F. McDonald, Vancouver lawyer who left assets having a total value of more than $292,000. A former resident of this city, he died May 17.

Under the will, after legacies, revenue from one-half the residue will got in perpetuity to th Canadian National Institute for the Blind in memory of the bachelor barrister's mother. Similar revenue will go to the Children's Hospital.

ELIGIBLE — Lord Carnegie, whose name has often been romantically linked with Princess Margaret, attended her 23rd birthday party at Balmoral Castle, Scotland. Whether or not it was he who sent the spray of white orchids to the princess still remains a secret.

NATURE BOYS SWIM IN ONT. FOUNTAIN

NORTH BAY, Ont. (BUP) Two "nature boys" went swimming in a civic fountain here Tuesday.

The pair undressed at a main intersection. One man climbed halfway up the fountain, then joined the other in the water. They splashed for a few minutes, got dressed, and departed.

No Polio Danger in Eggs, Expert Says

VANCOUVER (CP) — People can eat all the eggs they want without fear of contracting polio, Dr. Fred R. Beaudette of Rutgers University said Tuesday.

Almost all the inoculation serums for troops during the Second World War were cultured in eggs, Dr. Beaudette told delegates at the annual meeting of the Poultry Sciences Association.

"If polio and egg eating could be associated there would have been a definite increase in the incidence of polio in the armed services compared to civilian population . . . but they didn't get any more polio than the normal incidence."

The suggestion that polio might be transmitted to human beings through eggs has been made from time to time for several years, mainly because a form a paralysis is common among poultry, Dr. Beaudette said. Poultry experts say chicken paralysis is caused by a cancer-like disease called leucosis.

Dr. Beaudette admitted that some poultry diseases can be transmitted to human beings, "but you don't need to be afraid of polio."

This is the 1953 Chevrolet Bel Air 4-Door Sedan. It's one of 16 Chevrolet models in 3 series, which add up to the widest choice in the low-price field. A General Motors Value.

Some Chevrolet advantages worth considering when you're ready to choose a car . . .

Next to a new house, a car is probably your most important purchase. Here are some facts to help you make up your mind about which make to buy.

Isn't it a great day — the day you take delivery of a new car? You drive home cautiously and proudly, inhaling that wonderful new car aroma. Then you park out in front, while your friends and neighbors gather round to talk over your choice with you.

Naturally, you want that feeling of pride and satisfaction to last. So it's worthwhile to weigh all the factors carefully before you buy. Let's consider the important reasons why people choose one make over another and see how Chevrolet stands in those respects.

Styling You Can Stay Proud Of

Styling of course, is a matter of personal taste. Because we think Chevrolet is the best-looking car in its field, doesn't necessarily mean you'll think so, too. But we can tell you that the majority of our showroom visitors prefer Chevrolet styling and compare its appearance most favorably with cars costing a great deal more.

And you might consider this: Chevrolet styling is the newest in its field. It's the kind of styling that stays new, too. For it is based, not on temporary fads or extremes, but on the fundamentals of good, clean, modern design.

The One Automobile Body Almost Everybody Knows

It's not really surprising that so many people prefer Chevrolet's appearance. For Chevrolet is the lowest-priced, full size car in its field with Body by Fisher. And Fisher, as you know, is the only automobile body manufacturer with a worldwide reputation for styling, craftsmanship and quality.

Many of Canada's highest-priced cars feature Body by Fisher. Because of quantity purchases of materials and greater production, Fisher can — and does — build extra quality into the Chevrolet body and interiors.

The Many Benefits of High-Compression Power

When you drive a new Chevrolet (and we hope you'll do that soon), you'll notice these things: faster acceleration from a standing start; greater passing ability in traffic and on the highway; the new ease with which you climb steep hills.

These are just some of the benefits of Chevrolet's new high-compression power. In gearshift models, there is an entirely new 108-h.p. "Thrift-King" engine with a 7.1 to 1 compression ratio. Teamed with the new Powerglide automatic transmission there is also an entirely new 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine with an extra high compression ratio of 7.5 to 1.

A Great Gain in Gasoline Economy

Along with remarkable new performance, Chevrolet's advanced engines give you far greater gasoline mileage. In fact, this year marks the most important gain in economy in Chevrolet history. And that includes substantial savings on over-all upkeep, as well as on gasoline.

New Getaway in the New Powerglide*

Chevrolet brought you the first automatic transmission in its field. And now Chevrolet brings you the newest and most advanced one. The new Powerglide automatically drops into "Low" range for starting and for passing in city traffic. Then, as you glide along, it slips smoothly and almost imperceptibly into cruising range. The results are much faster and more positive acceleration, and much lower fuel consumption.

One of the things we're particularly anxious for you to try out is the performance and driving ease of this new Powerglide.

The First Power Steering in a Low-Priced Car

Chevrolet offers you the extra ease and convenience of Power Steering, optional at extra cost. With it, you can spin the wheel with the strength of one finger. You can seesaw in and out of tight parking places without the slightest strain. You get an additional cushion against road shocks and jars.

A Smoother and a Safer Ride

Comfort's a big consideration to almost every buyer. And almost every car claims to be exceptionally comfortable. Well, here are some facts bearing on comfort that you can judge for yourself.

To begin with, Chevrolet has ample weight to give a good, road-hugging ride. It isn't just weight that's been added indiscriminately, it's weight that comes from Chevrolet's extra strength, weight that means extra protection and safety because it's been utilized in strengthening body and frame.

Then, Chevrolet is the lowest priced car with Unitized Knee-Action. That means that the entire front suspension system is assembled and balanced as a separate unit. Only Chevrolet takes this extra step.

And as you go smoothly, so you stop smoothly. Chevrolet's new brakes with their 11-inch drums mean tremendous stopping power for emergencies — and easier, smoother stops at any time.

Chevrolet is the Lowest-Priced Fine Car Line

Certainly, price is one of the most important factors of all. We're glad to be able to tell you that Chevrolet is the lowest-priced line in its field. In fact, it is Canada's lowest-priced full-size car.

Now, you might well ask, "How can Chevrolet offer me more and still cost less?" There is a simple, logical answer to that.

Remember that Chevrolet builds more cars than any other manufacturer. Chevrolet, along with General Motors, has greater facilities for research, for engineering and production. So, isn't it reasonable that these greater facilities bring manufacturing advantages and economies which Chevrolet can pass on to you in terms of higher quality at lower price?

An Endorsement Given No Other Car

Again this year, more people are buying Chevrolets than any other car. Obviously that wouldn't be true unless people liked Chevrolet better. Unless Chevrolet offered more things people want — more value.

So, when you're ready to choose your new car, wouldn't you agree that Chevrolet merits your careful consideration? Believe it or not, there are a number of things we want you to know about the new Chevrolet that we haven't had space for here!

We welcome your visit at any time, so that you can look the car over yourself and try it out on the road.

STOCK EXCHANGE SUMMARIES:

New Larder Up 30 Cents

TORONTO (CP)—Low-priced mining issues highlighted steadier dealings toward the stock market's close today. Volume reached a four-month high.

Unusually high interest in speculative mining issues pushed turnover to an 850,000-share-an-hour clip with volume for the day expected to approach 4,700,000 shares.

New Larder U sparked a rising group of Bathurst area base metals with a jump of around 30 cents on a turnover of more than 536,000 shares.

Industrials overcame mid-day easiness to post scattered gains running to $1 or better. Golds settled back at mixed prices but base metals improved in dull trading.

Leaders in western oils halted their steep decline of the past two days but a majority of juniors were still shaky.

Papers, miscellaneous industrials and liquors tended higher but steels and refining oils showed a narrow margin of losses.

In the irregular western oil list, Central Explorers, Canada Oil Lands and Home Oil posted gains to 25 cents but Gridoil gave up early gains while United, Pathfinder, Britalta and Peruvian dropped small amounts.

Base metals were led to higher ground by such leaders as Falconbridge, Noranda, United Asbestos and Consolidated Smelters. Sherritt-Gordon and Chronium eased.

Golds had a well scrambled look. Lake Shore, Giant Yellowknife and Barnat declined but Kerr Addison and Hollinger firmed.

N.Y. Falters

NEW YORK (AP)—A higher stock market today had difficulty in holding to its position.

The market swung ahead, faltered, then it backed away from its best prices. Gains ran to almost a point at the best.

Canadian issues were mixed. International Nickel was up ⅜. Hiram Walker was off ⅛. Canadian Pacific and Dome Mines remained unchanged.

Royalite Oil, Canadian issue on the American stock exchange, was up ⅛. Lake Shore was unchanged.

Vancouver Prices, Transactions Up

Trading was a shade more active and prices showed upward tendencies on Vancouver sock exchange this forenoon. Western Tungsten at 1.95 showed a five-cent gain. Yankee Princess was up four at 55. Vantor advanced another two cents to 26.

Montreal Spotlight Also on New Larder

MONTREAL (CP)—The stock market showed an improved tone in slow forenoon dealings today.

Gains were limited to a fractional range. A considerable number of stocks continued to trade unchanged.

Papers held the leadership in the advance. Consolidated Paper rose a point to 38¾ while Price Brothers, Brown and Great Lakes posted fractional advances.

Utilities, carriers, senior oils and miscellaneous industrials were also on the upside.

Senior metals and steels were mixed while beverages and banks held steady.

New Larder held the spotlight in a stronger mining section. It climbed 31 cents to $2.21 on turnover of 95,550 shares. Preston, Sullivan Consolidated, Anacon, United Asbestos, Celta and Tiblemont also rose.

Western oils were generally firm. Gaspe added six cents.

Beneficiaries By $225,000 Will Secure?

A satisfactory settlement of the will involving the $225,000 estate of Haldar Haldorson, who died here in February, 1951, appeared likely today as the case was reviewed by Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane.

The will has been the subject of litigation ever since the death of Mr. Haldorson, who lived in Victoria for several years, but who originally came from Manitoba.

One of the main legal issues was whether the will came under the jurisdiction of Manitoba or British Columbia laws. This depended entirely on whether Mr. Haldorson was domiciled in B.C. or Manitoba.

The question is important for five beneficiaries who are not relatives of the deceased.

BEQUESTS AT STAKE

If the court should rule that Mr. Haldorson was domiciled in B.C., then it meant that these five beneficiaries would lose their share of the estate because provincial law does not recognize the type of will which Mr. Haldorson wrote.

His will was written on ordinary paper, in his own handwriting and without witnesses. This type of will is not legal here and it would have meant that Mr. Haldorson would have been regarded as having died intestate. The estate then would have gone to five relatives.

However, Manitoba recognizes this type of will, and the five non-relatives would receive their share of the estate if it came under the jurisdiction of that province.

Mr. Justice Macfarlane, in reviewing the case, indictated that he would accept the view that Mr. Haldorson was a resident of Manitoba.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Grain prices were mostly lower on the Winnipeg grain exchange today reflecting declines in United States markets. Flax showed the best tone.

There was some export demand for coarse grains with export buying of barley in connection with small sales to the United Kingdom. Some industrial support of flax appeared and oats showed mostly domestic activity. Trading was dull.

Export loadings of Canadian wheat in the last few days include: United Kingdom 1,400,000 bushels, Spain 500,000 Japan 650,000, Belgium 370,000, India 780,000, South Africa 350,000 and Peru a small lot.

Prices for top grades of Class Two wheat dropped 2 cents from Tuesday. IWA prices were unchanged.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP)—A gentle downward slide left grains with losses running to a couple of cents on the Board of Trade today.

Some grain contracts acted better than others and this was particularly true of September corn. It was ahead most of the session on short covering. New crop corn contracts acted better than other grains on continued dry weather in the corn belt.

Trading was not very active. Brokers said selling pressure did not become urgent at any time, but that the market lacked aggressive demand after two straight days of rising prices.

TV Boom Boosts Canada's Business

Canadian business is getting a potent jab in the arm from television, reports Forbes Rhude, Canadian Press business editor.

TV sets sold in Canada this year probably will total 350,000 valued at $148,750,000. This is nearly 1½ times the total for all preceding years since TV was invented.

And the TV boom hasn't hurt conventional radio. This year's sales of radio receivers are up over 1952, with automobile sets and clock-radios in the leading roles. In the first half of this year 292,171 radio sets valued at $26,776,302 were sold compared with 211,555 sets worth $19,413,395 in the same portion of last year.

The TV boom is penetrating into all sorts of corners of Canada's plants. The steel industry will get $2,400,000 worth of business because of TV sales in 1953. Makers of TV picture and vacuum tubes, excluding foreign-made components, will get $10,700,000; makers of electronic components, $10,000,000; manufacturers of paper insulation, fibres, glues, plastics, fabrics and rubber, $2,330,000; printers, $250,000; makers of antennae, $15,000,000-$20,000,000; furniture industry, for cabinets, $9,450,000.

Better Tone on London Exchange

LONDON (Reuters)—The London stock exchange displayed a generally better tone today. Best showing was by British government stocks though trading was very light.

German issues, centre of interest in the foreign group, were firmer. Potash issues came on offer and fell back slightly. Japanese were inclined to sag.

Among mines South African gold shares were a little easier on some Cape offerings though coppers benefited from some short covering and the increased price of the metal.

London industrials were uncertain and textile and store groups registered small losses. Oils and shipping issues were steady.

Among internationals Canadian Pacific and International Nickel lost fractions.

POLTERGEIST AT PLAY?

Invisible Fingers Ransack Locked Car

It could have been the little men from outer space, or an inquisitive poltergeist . . .

This is Cyril Black's tale of the haunted car.

Mr. and Mrs. Black live at 2560 Graham.

Tuesday night they went to the theatre, left their car parked and locked on View Street, above Quadra.

On the back seat was a new woman's suit in a box, wrapped in paper, and neatly covered by a car blanket.

"The car was locked," Mr. Black reiterated.

When they came back, Mr. and Mrs. Black peered into the back seat in astonishment . . . the blanket was neatly rolled and placed on the floor. The suit had been unwrapped and examined.

Nothing was missing. A camera lay safely in the glove compartment.

The car was still locked!

Mrs. Black didn't want to get into it.

"She was scared," said Mr. Black. He didn't admit it, but his tone implied he was a little dubious about getting behind the wheel.

There's something eerie about the thought of a possible unseen backseat driver.

Cyril Black suspects built-in spook.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

N. R. Crump, senior vice-president of the CPR, has denied rumors his company is considering purchase of the PGE.

Now, as an exclusive inside tip from Between Times, here is the exact truth of the matter: the PGE is NOT (repeat NOT) considering purchase of the CPR.

Well, another Monty said it, so I guess it's okay to repeat it, Monty MacFarlane, on his CJOR disc jockey show: "This is the last time I am able to make this free give-away offer. Any listener who sends me either $5,000 in cash or a Cadillac, will receive, absolutely free, 25 words or less."

On page one of today's Times, you will find the second installment in the series by our intrepid explorer, Humphry Davy, and I commend it to your attention.

Mr. Davy and his companion, in exploring the West Coast of this Island, have discovered (the headlines state) "No obstacles to long-sought road on Island's West Coast."

When Mr. Davy and his companion are sufficiently rested from their ordeal, I hope they will tackle another trip to establish the feasibility of transportation from one point to another.

The points I have in mind are the corners of Government and Johnson, and Government and Belleville.

Mr. Davy and companion took nine days to cover the route of the proposed West Coast road.

For a real test of endurance, they should tackle the route suggested above, at 5 p.m. with cars parked on both sides of a thoroughfare which any member of the bovine race would destain to call a cow trail, with pedestrians swarming out to hurl themselves in sacrifical ecstacy against the oncoming flow of traffic, and large, behemoth-like herds of buses trampling the Austins beneath their ponderous feet.

Latest Between Times losing crusade: No parking on Government Street at rush hours.

Les Stewart has turned in a report on a man who not only saved money by vacationing at home, but actually turned a profit.

This gentleman was curled up, with a cool lemonade, on the second day of his vacation, when a truck appeared with a great load of wood.

He merely chuckled when the load was dumped in his drive way, secure in the knowledge that his two youngsters (age 10 and 12) were charged with the responsibility of bringing in and piling the wood.

But the boys had a different plan. The younger, a babysitter by trade, and the elder, a successful carrier salesman, were loaded with dough at the moment.

They offered their father a total of two bucks (cash) if HE'D bring in the wood.

Which he did, and that is how he turned a profit while on vacation.

PIPELINE TO GOVERN COST

Lower Gas, Oil Prices Coming

By ED McLEAN, Times Business Editor

Reductions in B.C. gasoline, furnace and stove oil prices later this year are possible and probable—but extent of the reductions will depend entirely upon the delivery charges posted by Trans Mountain's Edmonton-Vancouver crude oil pipeline.

John R. White, young and personable president of Imperial Oil Limited, Canada's oldest and biggest oil company, repeated that statement in Empress Hotel Tuesday afternoon. He first made it at Vancouver last March.

Trans Mountain's pipeline will be completed within a couple of months. Almost simultaneously Imperial's modernized and expanded refinery at Ioco, near Vancouver, will come into use.

Trans Mountain's crude-oil carrying charges are to be announced next month.

While unwilling to guess what difference the changeover to Alberta, from California, crude oil would make to Ioco's costs, Mr. White said the reduction could be as much as two cents per gallon on gasoline. There also will be an unseen benefit to British Columbia motoritsts—higher octane gasoline.

Seminar on Oil Economics

During a 90-minute seminar in oil-industry economics Tuesday evening, Mr. White and his assistants, vice-president W. O. Twaits, supply department manager Fred G. Cottle, assistant to the president Frank W. Prendergast and public relations officer James Rennie, declared:

1. There's no international or national oil cartel.

2. There's no collusion in the setting of wholesale gasline and heating-oil prices in Canada. The fact all companies conform in any given locality is not prima facie evidence of price-fixing; its cause lies in determination of others to stay level with the price posted by whatever firm can most economically service that market. In other words, some gas companies make a profit, some sustain a loss in supplying Victoria.

3. Imperial and other Canadian oil companies have no control over retail prices. Imperial neither owns nor operates any of its 9,000 outlets but it does hold mortgages on 890; these mortgagors must handle Imperial products exclusively but can pay off the mortgage at any time and switch to another company.

4. Current levels of gasoline, furnace and stove oil prices reflect exactly the current higher costs of crude oil, oil field and refinery machinery, wages, transportation and distribution costs.

Current Prices Not Exorbitant

5. Financial statements of Imperial's B.C. operations substantiate the company's contention current prices are not exorbitant. B.C. earnings in 1951 and 1952 represented 1.6 per cent profit on the capital employed, a sharp decline from the 5 per cent return in 1950. In the first half of this year Imperial's B.C. revenues were $98,000 less than its outlays.

7. The more rapid rise since 1945 in the upward curve of furnace and stove-oil prices, as compared to gasoline, is due almost entirey to increases in consumption. B.C. used 5,523,199 gallons of gasoline last year, more than double 1945's 2,546,671 gallons. Heating-fuel requirements in 1952 were more than three times 1945's . . 4,672,352 gallons compared with 1,292,600. To supply the gasoline demand Imperial had to process its crude so as to obtain the greatest amount of gasoline. Consequently, the amount of heating-fuel obtained per barrel of crude oil was reduced and, as a result, special importaions had to be made to meet the demand. These importations came from American markets in a period of rising crude-oil prices.

Noting local demands for an investigation into the oil industry, Mr. White said he had no objection to a full-scale study into his company's operating costs, so long as the investigators looked into all the factors. Gasoline prices, for instance, do not stand or fall alone. They are part of a greater picture, only one of the products obtained from a barrel of crude.

BENCHES AT BUS STOPS ADVOCATED

Issue May Bring Council Battle

Benches at bus stops for tired pedestrians may become a controversial civic issue once again when city council holds its first meeting Sept. 3 after a six-week summer recess.

Latest move for benches comes from Mastercraft Agencies of Vancouver, who propose to place seats at major intersections and bus stops without cost to the city.

The benches would carry advertising, a point on which council has frowned in the past. Payment of $1.50 a month per seat would be made the city.

"They are a boon and a blessing to tired workers and women laden with shopping parcels, also to elderly and pregnant women who otherwise must stand waiting for their transportation to come along," Mastercraft Agencies wrote the city.

They asked council to agree to a three-month trial for six benches.

"The seat placements are becoming so popular that before the idea is veteod for any reason it is respectfully suggested that a trial be agreed upon," the agencies' letter stated.

It claimed "no one resents the advertising" on the side of the bench facing the street.

POINT OF CONTROVERSY

It was on this point that controversy stormed in council once before when it told Woodward's it would have to remove the advertising from its benches or remove the benches from city streets.

City council was itself however instrumental in having the Municipal Act amended in 1951 to give it authority to pass a by-law permitting "placing of benches on sidewalks and boulevards at bus stops for the accommodation of the public."

Council said it had no legal authority to allow advertising on benches but this was considered "a narrow interpretation" in some civic quarters.

One Pandora Avenue cafe has put out three ordinary chairs on the street in front of its premises to accommodate persons waiting for buses.

Also missing are a lady's gold wedding ring, and one other gold ring; a five-strand pearl necklace; an antique, gold-plate necklace; 15 silver dollars, and a U.S. confederate dollar bill.

Buttle Timber Held Property of People

Power Commission Under Attack For Suggested Claim to Revenue

R. HAIG-BROWN . . . he'd hold assets

Revenue from sale of timber surrounding Buttle Lake in Strathcona Park should be turned over to the provincial government parks division, not the B.C. Power Commission, Roderick Haig-Brown, Campbell River conservationist, said in Victoria today.

He termed as "completely illogical" the impression that the money will go to the power commission to help offset the cost of clearing the area.

Mr. Haig-Brown contended the parks' division should get the revenue to be used in development of the recreational facilities.

The timber in question, which Mr. Haig-Brown contends may total 150,000,000 to 200,000,000 board feet, is that which must be cleared 38 feet above the lake level so that no timber will be flooded when the lake rises.

Said the conservationist: "There can be no question of the power commission having any right or claim in the timber to be logged—unless breaking into a man's house gives you a right to all his property.

BELONGS TO PARK

"The timber in Strathcona Park belongs to the park—that is the public. Some of the best of it was recovered for the park by direct government purchase, some by exchange for Crown timber. The rest was park property, expressly withheld from logging for all time.

"It is now suggested that this timber may be made available to the power commission at less than market value, or that it be given to them to 'pay for the cost of logging and clearing.' In other words, that the power commission, in addition to being free from assessment of damage, be subsidized out of public assets to facilitate the damage.

"This means, ultimately, subsidizing private industry out of public assets."

$4,000,000 YIELD SEEN

He said preliminary estimates indicate that at least 150,000,000 to 200,000,000 board feet of merchantable timber, much of it highest grade fir, will be logged if Buttle is dammed to the level suggested.

"At $20 per thousand, which is roughly the going price, this is $4,000,000 (if 200,000,000 board feet)," he stated.

Mr. Haig-Brown contended the timber is worth far more standing than logged and is a part of the recreational assets of the province because it was set aside for that purpose.

"If it must be logged, it is quite clear that the proceeds of the sale, and any other incidental government profits from the logging, belong properly with the parks division, and nowhere else.

"And this still will not be compensation for the public loss. It will simply be forced realization of cash for an asset under unfavorable terms of sale.

"Any proceeds from the timber should logically be spent by the parks division in acquisition, protection or development of some similar asset," Mr. Haig-Brown said.

Stolen Goods Found in Car, Driver Held

Twenty-one-year-old Robert Davenport, 1010 Empress Avenue, a garage attendant, pleaded guilty in city police court today to a charge of retaining stolen property, under the value of $25.

Davenport was apprehended at 1.25 this morning by Detective William Andrews, who stopped his car in the 800 block View Street and discovered inside a 24-pound case of margarine.

Subsquent investigation determined the margarine had been stolen from a W. H. Malkin truck parked overnight at the service station where Davenport works.

Davenport told police he had bought the margarine from a man who approached him at the station, and had paid $5 for the carton. Market value was $8.

Magistrate A. I. Thomas adjourned the matter until Friday, pending a probation officer's report on the accused.

Window-Breaker Prefers Jail To Cash Outlay

James Cruickshank of Lime Bay, about 50, chose to serve seven days in jail rather than pay a $32 court assessment when he was found guilty and sentenced by Magistrate A. I. Thomas in city police court today on a charge of causing wilful damage to premises at 929 Caledonia.

The magistrate told Cruickshank he would be fined $20 and would pay $12 to compensate for the five windows he broke in the house or, in default, serve seven days.

"Thanks, I'll do the seven days," Cruickshank said, as he turned toward the courtroom door leading to the cells below.

Charge against Cruickshank was laid on the complaint of Mrs. Margaret Taylor, tenant at 929 Caledonia, following an incident during the early morning of Aug. 6.

Mrs. Taylor, who lives upstairs in the house, said Cruickshank threw a package of margarine through a downstairs window and then smashed four other windows with a beer bottle.

Taximan Harold B. Crowe, 239 Tolcross, who was subpoened by Cruickshank as a defense witness, failed to bear out the accused's story that the windows had been broken before Aug. 6.

Highway Builders Cut Size of Blast Charge

Campbell Bennett Ltd., the construction firm under fire for alleged excessive blasting in the Portage Inlet area, has promised the provincial public works department to use smaller charges of dynamite in building the city's new Island Highway outlet.

The assurance was given Tuesday afternoon by Colin Campbell, company president, who was called into a conference with Public Works Minister P. A. Gaglardi and other works department officials.

The minister was out of town this morning, but an official said Mr. Campbell gave an undertaking to "shoot lighter" in the area.

This means powder men will use less dynamite than they have been, even though only half charges have been used to date.

Mr. Campbell was called in to confer with works department heads after a departmental engineer investigated complaints of residents earlier in the day.

Residents complained that a large rock plunged through the roof of a house and several other houses in the area have been damaged by flying rocks.

FEARED FOR HOMES

They feared for the safety of their homes and themselves.

The works department spokesman said Campbell Bennett admitted one blast "got away" from them last Friday, hurling a rock through a roof.

"The company has promised to take all precautions to make sure this won't happen again," he said.

Meanwhile, J. L. Brown, 1101 Burnside Road, one of the chief complainants, said he is having an injunction drawn by his lawyers to prevent excessive blasting.

But he hasn't decided whether to proceed with court action. He wants the injunction prepared just in case it's needed, he said.

He claimed cracked plaster in surrounding houses is becoming increasingly common as a result of the blasting for the new road.

Company officials, he contended, are trying to minimize the damage being caused.

The company pays for any damage caused, and makes arrangements for repairs.

Cool Weather May Reduce Polio Menace

Cooler weather may have a halting effect on the resurgence of polio noted earlier this week, when four new cases were announced, according to George Masters, Jubilee Hospital administrator.

There were no new cases or suspected cases reported up to press time today.

Meanwhile, Dr. J. L. Gayton, city health officer, disclosed that 53 cases have been treated in the district this year. The figure is greater by ten than the figure quoted by the Times Tuesday.

Times figures have so far shown number of city and district cases, but the health department totals, which will be quoted in future, include all cases coming here from other parts of Vancouver Island.

The Vic Van Isle Kinsmen Polio Fund has been added to by a total of $92 from a polio benefit series between Capital City Gasmen and the Chinese Students.

The winning team, the Gasmen, who are also City and Island champs, were presented with a silver cup by Vic Van Isle Kinsmen president, Gordon Butterfield, following the final game at Central Park Tuesday night.

The fund total now approaches $1,200.

TOURIST TOLD PARK NO PLACE TO HANG WASH

An American tourist who parked his trailer and hung out his washing in Beacon Hill Park last week-end was politely but firmly advised there is no overnight accommodation at the park.

"He ensconced himself on one of our most valuable scenic spots, near Lovers' Lane, and had his laundry out when a senior provincial government official happened by," commented Ald. Frank Mulliner today.

Parks officials, with the aid of a commissionaire, advised the visitor there was "no free parking."

Canada, U.S. Culture Contrasts Seen

Crossing the 49th parallel reveals a definite change in culture, according to three tourists from Kofu, Japan, who where in Victoria today.

"Things move slower here," said Paul Y. Sone, of the Kofu Y's Men's Club. "In the United States horns blare, everyone is in a hurry; here you are, what you might say, a little more conservative," he said in flawless English.

Mr. Sone and his two companions, Motoo Takano and Dr. Kiichi Ichikawa, are on a three-month tour of the United States and Canada visiting with Y's men's clubs everywhere they go.

Ray Newman, local Y's men's president, is conducting the Kofu delegation here. So far they have visited 25 clubs.

The three attended the organization's annual international convention, July 26-30 in Davenport, Iowa. Mr. Sone was the official delegate for Kofu.

The trio traveled across Canada from Toronto by Canadian National Railway and has been in Canada for the past three weeks. They leave here today for Seattle and will take a ship from San Francisco, Aug. 31, for home after visiting in Portland and Salem, Ore.

Mr. Sone, who acts as spokesman for the group since his English is most fluent, would not commit himself as to which country he liked best, but admitted that he was accustomed to the more conservative life of Canada.

"We like the slower way of you Canadians, but which is best depends on whom you meet in each country," he laughed.

Fabric Roses This Fall Popular in Browns, Greens

By PENNY SAVER

Isn't it funny how, with the first late August rain, everyone decides that summer is over and start planning their fall wardrobes! The stores are right in there with new displays of sweaters, skirts and woolen dresses, which naturally has a lot to do with it. One big window display is reminder enough for most girls . . . some need only the mere suggestion of "autumn" and they're off on a shopping spree!

Now if you're up to date, my lass, you'll know that dark-colored roses are the latest fall fad. You've been wearing pretty pastel fabric roses with you're summer frocks, but now the tide is turning to the autumn shades. Try, if you can, to imagine a velvet rose in a dusty, smoke-green shade! Now, combine your imaginary bloom with a rust-hued wool dress . . . the effect is stunning! Price of the green rose is $1.25.

A glorious shade of burnt orange, turning brown at the edges, makes an attractive rose, and has obviously been designed to complement brown ensembles . . . 79 cents.

Saw some cute little beige-colored roses with darker brown centres for 50 cents. They'd go with almost any of your fall outfits. And mustn't forget to tell you about the huge velvet one in dark chocolate-brown. It's so big that I wouldn't suggest buying it if you're under five foot six . . . wouldn't want it to make you top-heavy . . . $2.98. For evening sophistication, try a black rose. They come in various sizes and prices. Then I saw some in brilliant royal blue for $1.49.

Only natural-looking rose in the display was one of deep dusk-rose velvet. The tips of its petals are touched with early autumn "dew" in the form of rhinestones . . . 75 cents.

Essential Nutrition Vital To College Girl's Charm

This week I am giving a few days to college girls. If you are one of the thousands who will soon be leaving home, remember that your mother has given great thought and effort to feeding you scientifically so that she could build a splendid, healthy body for you in which to house your mind and spirit.

Young people are likely to underestimate the tremendous value of good health. This is natural since they are riding high and handsome on the tide of the energy of extreme youth.

Do not be fooled in this matter. Even the youngest people can break under the penalty of poor nutrition. Do not put a dent in the job your mother has done for you.

Good nutrition, like good posture, is really a glamorous subject rather than a dull one. These not only have an influence on your health but on your hair and complexion and that sparkle in your eye. They have an effect on your vitality and energy and enthusiasm which are the foundations of charm and personality.

Remember that you need your green vegetables and salads and fresh fruit and citrus juices for beauty as well as for health. Remember that eggs and milk and whole grain products are essential for looks as well as for pep. I feel quite sure that you will eat your meat and potatoes and desserts.

Beware of stuffing on sweets and rich pastries to the detriment of the essential foods. Many girls do this because they are lonely, or shy or bored. Just because you are at college do not do this. Do not forget the rules of good nutrition which you learned in your home while your taste buds run away with you.

Also watch your weight, not by dieting unscientifically but by watching out for those in-between snacks. They are fun, and, of course, you must have some of them, but the late and rich afternoon snack which spoils the carefully planned dinner can play havoc with your looks even if you are not interested in your health.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Quick Hungarian Goulash

One pound lean beef, 1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet, 2 tablespoons fat, 1 cup finely diced onion, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1½ cups water, 1½ cups diced carrots, 1½ cups diced potatoes, 11-ounce can condensed tomato soup, cooked broad noodles.

Cut meat in 1-inch cubes. Place in a bowl and sprinkle with kitchen bouquet. Stir to coat meat evenly. Melt fat in frying pan. Add meat and brown quickly over moderate heat, then sprinkle in onion and cook about three minutes longer, stirring frequently. Add seasonings and water. Cover and bring to boil.

Cook slowly until meat is nearly tender, about 45 minutes. Add carrots and potatoes which have been cut in ½-inch cubes. Bring to boil again and continue cooking until vegetables are barely tender, about 15 minutes longer. Add contents of can of soup and stir gently until smoothly mixed in. Serve over cooked noodles, which have been tossed with poppy seeds if desired.

Victoria Officer Marries Prairie Girl in Calgary

Wesley United Church, Calgary, was scene of an attractive wedding recently, when Lieut. Richard John Money Bell, son of Capt. and Mrs. H. M. S. Bell, St. Patrick Street, Victoria, took as his bride, Margaret Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrel A. Hansen of Calgary. Following their wedding, Lieut. and Mrs. Bell are honeymooning in Southern California and Vancouver prior to making their home there while the groom completes courses at University of British Columbia.

A graduate of Royal Military College, Kingston, and of Royal Roads, Victoria, Lieut. Bell is commissioned with Lord Strathcona's Horse (RC), and has recently returned from a year's service in Korea. His bride holds a BSc degree in Household Economics from University of Alberta and has just completed a dietetic interneship at University Hospital, Edmonton.

The wedding service was performed by Rev. J. Alan Duncan, Lacombe, Alta.

The bride chose a gown of white nylon tulle featuring cascades of white cotton lace on the skirt. A full-length veil billowed from a cap appliqued with lace. Her flowers were white gardenias and ivy in a cascade arrangement.

Maid of honor was Miss Jean Rennie of Edmonton, wearing yellow tulle with bouffant skirt and floor-length matching stole. Miss Adrienne Hansen, sister of the bride, and Miss Sheila Swinarton, Fort Macleod, a cousin, wore similar dresses of coral color. Another cousin, little Wendy Cooper, was flower girl in yellow tulle. All wore picture hats, matching gloves and carried flowers to tone. Best man was Gordon McCaffery, Calgary, and ushers Dr. Gerald Francis, Red Deer, and John Willshir, Calgary.

A reception was held in the Palliser Hotel, when 125 guests were received by the young couple, assisted by Mrs. Hansen. A three-tier cake, topped with a single gardenia centred the bride's table. A toast to the bride was proposed by her uncle, A. G. Swinarton. Her grandmother, Mrs. J. Swinarton, Fort Macleod, was a special guest.

For traveling, Mrs. Bell chose a beige silk shantung dress yollow mohair coat, brown velour hat with beige feather trim, and brown accessories.

Co-Workers Honor Miss Knott

Three of her co-workers in the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Douglas and Bay Branch, Miss Elsy Price, Miss Helen Halfhide and Miss Joan West, were joint hostesses at a shower honoring Miss Clarice Knott, whose marriage will take place Sept. 5. A model of the bank contained gifts from the assembled guests and from Mrs. J. Stewart, mother of the groom-elect; Mrs. Ronald Stewart, Mrs. Jack Stewart, Mrs. J. B. Adams and the Misses Onnalea and Mervyn Adams, all of Vancouver. Corsages of roses, gladioli and carnations were presented to the bride-elect, her mother, Mrs. S. R. L. Knott and grandmother, Mrs. S. Cecil.

During the evening a telephone call was received from Mrs. Ted Symonds, New Westminster. Mrs. Symonds, the former Mildred French, was also a fellow employee of Miss Knott. Invited guests included Mrs. J. F. French, Mrs. Ted Porter, Mrs. Kenneth Young, Mrs. Tom Varty, Mrs. J. E. West, Mrs. M. Conconi, Mrs. D. McLellan and the Misses Donna Conconi, Sylvia Knott, Irene French and Helen Knott.

Friends Fete Joyce Fraser

Mrs. W. G. Daniels was hostess recently with a miscellaneous shower at the Battery Street home of Mrs. Gilbert Carmichael to honor Mrs. Joyce Fraser. Rooms were decorated with sweet peas. A corsage of gardenias was presented to the honor guest with her gifts. Seventeen members of the city hall staff were present.

Mrs. Fraser was also honored recently when Mrs. M. Davidson and Mrs. H. N. Walls entertained at the home of Mrs. Owen Fowler on Thorpe Place. Rooms were decorated with sweet peas, roses and gladioli. A gift of linen was presented to the honor guest with a corsage of roses and heather. Mrs. H. Holt and Mrs. Victor Rolfe presided at the tea table, which was centred with a bowl of pink and white carnations and a miniature bride and groom. Twenty members of city hall staff were present.

Shower for Miss D'Alleva

Mrs. A. Rossiter and Mrs. E. Rossiter were co-hostesses recently with a surprise miscellaneous shower at the home of the former on Wascana Street to honor Miss Angeline d'Alleva, who is to be married this Saturday. The honor guest was given a corsage of pink rosebuds with the gifts, which were concealed in a decorated basket. Games were played during the evening and refreshments served from a lace-covered table centred with carnations. Serviteurs were Mrs. Pearl Smith, Mrs. L. McLaren and Mrs. A. Stafford. Other guests were Mrs. R. Stevenson, Mrs. L. Farmere, Mrs. P. Stevenson, Mrs. G. Eaton, Mrs. R. Nutter, Mrs. A. Pellow, Mrs. J. Haverty, Mrs. J. McDonald, Mrs. C. Smith, Mrs. S. Sample and Mrs. R. Rain.

ACWW Leader Believes Women Can Bring World Peace

TORONTO (CP)—Every woman can help to create a peaceful world by teaching tolerance and racial understanding to her own children, Mrs. Alice Berry of Australia, new president of the Associated Country Women of the World, said last week.

Speaking at the closing plenary session of the ACWW's 10-day conference, Mrs. Berry said: "The shrinkage of this world by fast transportation and communication has made it impossible for us to continue to think nationally."

She said that as president she will never accept complacency among the constituent societies because "there is no reason for us to believe we have even begun to solve the problems of this world's country women."

Retiring president Mrs. Raymond Sayre told 1,000 delegates that it is easy to make resolutions, but it takes work and courage to make them alive.

She added that Scotland, Ceylon and Australia have extended invitations to hold the eighth triennial conference in their countries, but no decision has been made.

Suffocating "Hot Flashes" stopped or strikingly relieved—in doctors' tests!

• Are you going through "change of life"—suffering the "hot flashes," nervous tension, irritability, weakness and other types of functionally-caused distress of this difficult time?

Then . . . here's hope for you. In tests by doctors—on their own patients—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave relief from such distress. Complete or striking relief! In case after case!

Scientifically modern action!

Surely you know that Lydia Pinkham's is scientifically modern in action! Surely you know what it has done for others!

But do you know what it will do for you? Not if you haven't experienced the relief of tension, "flashes" and irritability it so often brings at such times!

Before another day has passed—try Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound . . . or the new, improved Tablets (with added iron) . . . and discover how much easier your "change of life" may be!

NOTE: Lydia Pinkham's is grand, too, for functional cramps and "weak" feelings of menstruation! Millions of younger women, and girls, take it regularly—throughout the month—for this purpose!

Lydia Pinkham's action through sympathetic nervous system—relieves distress of the "heatwaves"!

Trio of Colors Worn by Attendants Sets Off Beauty of Bride's Dress

Attendants' colors carefully chosen to enhance the delicate glow of ivory satin and lace fashioning the bridal gown made an exquisite picture Tuesday night as Sheila Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Sinnamon, Gosworth Road, exchanged marriage vows with Lorne Campbell Minchin, Calgary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Minchin, Major, Sask. The ceremony took place in St. Alban's Anglican Church with Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh officiating.

White gladioli decked the altar and standard baskets of summer flowers had been placed in the chancel. Walter Hamilton, church organist, played traditional wedding music and during signing of the register Handel's Pastoral Symphony.

Mr. Sinnamon gave his daughter in marriage. Her graceful gown was styled with full sweeping skirt; the bodice, high-necked with long pointed sleeves, enhanced with a deep scalloped band of satin which was repeated around the skirt. From the waist flowed a court length train of filmy English lace and she wore a chapel veil of embroidered illusion net, caught with a tiara of orange blossoms and seed pearls, and the groom's gift of a pearl necklace. Her cascade bouquet was composed of pink roses and white stephanotis.

Apricot yellow taffeta with net overskirt in ballerina length gowned Mrs. W. F. Osselton, sister of the bride, as matron of honor. She carried a sheaf of bronze gladioli. Youngest sister, Miss Jeanne Sinnamon, was bridesmaid, wearing similarly styled pink taffeta and net and carrying gladioli toned from pink to deep mauve.

The little train bearer was Miss Katherine Eriksen in mauve taffeta and net with a colonial posy of mauve sweet peas and one yellow carnation tucked into her velvet sash. All three attendants wore matching floral wreaths in their hair. Best man was brother of the groom, Bruce Minchin and ushers, W. F. Osselton and Jack Doddridge.

Pink and white streamers and white wedding bells decked St. Albans' Church Hall, where the reception took place. Mrs. Sinnamon in a clove-colored tiered taffeta dress with cream accessories and yellow roses, and Mrs. Minchin in deep mauve lace over crepe with corsage of pink gladioli, assisted in welcoming the guests. Oliver G. Strand, uncle of the bride, proposed her happiness. The three-tiered wedding cake was set in a cloud of tulle and flanked with tall candles and rose bowls, each containing one perfect Peace rose.

Mr. and Mrs. Minchin are motoring through the Western States and will make their future home at Calgary. Mrs. Minchin departed in a navy suit of Ottoman cord, matching velour French cloche, pink accessories and wore a corsage of pink roses.

Old Italian Custom Revived At California Reception

A dark-haired Italian bride followed an old custom of her native country, when she passed favors of "confetti," white coated almonds wrapped in net and tied with ribbon, to wedding guests at a reception following the cermony which united her with Charles R. (Rudy) Davis, Fire Control technician, PO 2nd Class, US Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Davis of Duncan, B.C. She is Margaret Genevieve, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Kent Witham, of Duncan, B.C. A two-tier wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom centred the bride's table and toast was proposed by N. K. Christensen.

The wedding took place in the US Navy Chapel, Treasure Island, San Francisco, decorated with baskets of white lilies for the occasion. Rev. F. R. Rademacher officiated, and during signing of the register "Ave Maria" by Gounod was played.

Given in marriage by N. K. Christensen, the attractive bride was gowned in white organdy, fashioned with full skirt, dipped waistline, cap sleeves and bodice trimmed with daisy lace. A shoulder-length veil filmed from a dainty headdress trimmed with seed pearls and Formosa orange blossoms. Stephanotis and brown symbodium formed her colonial bridal bouquet.

Maid of honor, Miss Barbara Pearson, Portland, Ore., wore a full-skirted gown of pale yellow white-frosted organdy in ballerina length. She carried a colonial bouquet of lavender carnations and wore a matching headdress. Best man was Michael J. Burke and B. D. Sloan was usher. Mother of the groom traveled to San Francisco to attend the wedding.

The newlyweds chose Santa Cruz, Calif., for their honeymoon. For traveling, Mrs. Davis donned a wool crepe suit of soft green with matching capelet lined with printed silk. She wore a green hat, accessories of British tan and the brown symbodium from her bridal corsage. After the honeymoon the bride will return to Lake Cowichan, where she is a home economics teacher at the Junior-Senior High School, and the groom will remain at Treasure Island to complete a naval course.

Couple Honeymoon on Mainland and at Nanaimo

Married last Saturday evening in Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob have been on honeymoon this week in Nanaimo and Vancouver.

Father M. J. McNamara officiated at the ceremony which united Miss Eileen Tidbury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tidbury, 1417 Taunton Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Jacob, Edmonton.

For the wedding the bride wore a pale blue suit with navy blue accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Her only attendant was Mrs. S. R. Salmon and Leo Roberts stood with the groom as best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where Alfred Trueman proposed the toast. Returning from honeymoon the couple will live at 1306 Gladstone Avenue.

WANDERING O'BRIEN HOPES FOR HAVEN IN ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UP)—Michael Patrick O'Brien, a "man without a country," may learn today whether he will find a haven in Argentina or be forced to continue his wandering.

O'Brien, a former bartender in Shanghai, spent more than 10 months shuttling between Hong Kong and Macao on a ferry because neither British nor Portuguese authorities would admit him on the documents with which he left Communist China.

O'Brien, 58, arrived here Tuesday aboard the French liner Bretagne but Argentine maritime authorities refused to say whether he would be permitted to disembark here.

TRAPPED UNDER WATER

Ont. Pilot Saves Three Youths After Plane Crash

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (UP) — Three boys who were rescued from a single-engined plane that crashed into Lake Mazinaw were reported in "very serious condition" today at Belleville General Hospital.

Larry Chandler, 17, of Toronto, suffered head injuries and multiple face cuts. Robert Butters, 19, Montreal, received chest and internal injuries. Kenneth Kirk, 10, of Kirkkove, Ont., suffered a broken leg and severe shock.

Pilot Arnold Flieler of Cloyne, Ont., rescued the three from the plane's cabin, where they were caught Tuesday strapped upside down under water.

He managed to get Kirk and Butters out before he was forced to the surface. He dived under again to rescue the unconscious Toronto boy, who had been underwater more than five minutes.

Flieler, operating a small charter and pleasure flight in the resort area, was flying the three from Kirkkove to Mazinaw Lake, 60 miles north of here, when the engine missed.

"We seemed to be caught in a downdraft and I lost control over the aircraft," he said.

Last Rites Set For John Egan, World War Hero

John Egan of 1677 Hollywood Crescent, who died suddenly on Monday, will be buried Thursday at the Royal Oak Burial Park.

The interment will follow a funeral service at McCall Brothers' chapel conducted by the Rev. Moir A. J. Waters and Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson.

Mr. Egan was construction supervisor of the Victoria branch of the B.C. Telephone Company. He had been employed by them since 1919.

Born in San Francisco, he came to Victoria with his parents as a child. He attended North Ward and Victoria High School.

In the First World War he won the DCM while serving with the Canadian army machinegun division.

He leaves a widow, one son, John Bruce Egan, and a sister, Mrs. William Dennis in Palo Alto, California.

Young Equestrians Eager to Compete In Academy Show

So big has the entry list grown for the junior horse show, Sept. 2, that officials of the Victoria Riding Academy have decided to plan a two-day program next year.

D. B. Carley, manager of the academy, reported today this year's second annual junior show would have 17 events, starting at 1.30 p.m. at the riding academy grounds on Cedar Hill Cross Road.

Among the events for the youngsters, who will range in age from six to 19, are novice jumping, western stock saddle seat class, bareback double riding, trotting and bending race, gamblers' sweepstake, partner race, musical poles, western obstacle and back alley jumping.

Retiring Civic Officer Honored

City Hall colleagues honored A. C. Newton Smith, personnel officer, who left the civic service after 17 years to take a post with the federal government, at a presentation ceremony recently.

City Manager Cecil Wyatt presented Mr. Smith with a fly fishing rod and tackle, on behalf of the staff.

FAMED SONG'S COMPOSER AT SPROAT LAKE

PORT ALBERNI, B.C. — Mrs. Elinor Dusenbury, composer of the semi-official anthem "Alaska's Flag," is visiting at nearby Sproat Lake.

Inspired by Marie Drake's poem of the same name, Mrs. Dusenbury, wife of U.S. Army Col. Ralph Dusenbury, wrote the song when her husband was stationed in Alaska. "Alaska's Flag" was introduced by Fred Waring, who has played it on national radio and TV shows many times.

Col. and Mrs. Dusenbury, who make their home in Carlsbad, Cal., have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Taylor at Sproat Lake.

Elan Program Will Embrace Writer Group

Labor Day Week-End Festivity Planned

The first writers' workshop, aimed at providing an opportunity for Vancouver Islanders to meet and discuss problems of their craft, will be held at Elan Centre, on Cherry Point Road, from Aug. 31 to Sept. 5.

Workshop members will stay at Elan centre and all sessions will be held there. Evening lectures will be open to the public.

Resident leaders will be: Dr. Grant Redford, professor of creative writing at the University of Washington; Dr. Mee Steinberg, professor of modern literature at UBC; Miss Yvonne Stephenson, free lance writer, and Miss Dorothy Punderson, Elan president.

A social evening will be held Aug. 30.

Extensive activities are planned for Elan over the Labor Day week-end with dances, a picnic, regatta and concerts on the program.

5,000 Volunteers Build 186 Homes

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — More than 5,000 volunteers are expected to participate Saturday and Sunday in a giant project to rebuild some 186 Flint area homes that were levelled by a tornado June 8, which claimed 116 lives. Home owners will supply the building materials and are to have them on hand when the volunteer laborers arrive. Many building supply dealers have offered big discounts.

Warlike Comic Books Target of Red Union

GUATEMALA CITY (Reuters) — Guatemala's powerful left-wing teacher's union has demanded that the leftist government ban the import of "comic books of a warlike character" immediately. The resolution passed this week at a meeting teachers here, said the comic books, a product of "imperialist warmongers," had a bad effect on Guatamalan children.

DEMANDING an accounting of more than $2,000,000 he earned in the past five years, singer Mario Lanza has filed suit in Santa Monica, Calif., against his former business manager, Samuel Weiler.

Drugs Ironed Into Book Pages Ontario Prison Probe Told

HAMILTON, Ont. (BUP)—Deputy Ontario reforms minister Hedley Basher told a legislature committee Tuesday that jail inmates were forbidden to receive presents of books since a new way of smuggling drugs was discovered.

"Smugglers moisten the pages of books and then iron the drug into the wet paper," he explained.

"It is difficult to detect and all the prisoner has to do is tear off a piece of the paper and chew it."

Search Abandoned For Alberta Cyclist

SMITHERS (CP) — RCMP Tuesday abandoned a search among sheer rock walls in Glacier Gulch for Alberta cyclist Walter Englehart, 22, who apparently fell to his death while taking pictures.

Resident of Calgary and Edmonton, Englehart was reported missing when campers found his tent, sleeping bag and other possessions at Kathyn Lake. Others found his locked bicycle at the gulch, 2,500 feet above sea level and some six miles from this interior city.

B.C. Drama Competition Dates Given

B.C. regional competitions of the 1954 Dominion Drama Festival will be held in Vancouver February 8 to 13, it is announced by the festival chairman.

Entries must be in the home of Mrs. Jessie Richardson, 4428 West Fourteenth, Vancouver, Zone 8, by October 1.

Mrs. Richardson said the main regional centre will be named in order for all groups to participate.

Only oficial drama groups of at least one year's operation, which have produced one other play than their festival entry, may apply.

Preliminary eliminations will be held in December, 1953, to reduce entries to the required six.

A deposit of $35 is required for each full length play and $20 for each one-act play entered. One-act plays are only eligible to compete for the Sir Barrie Jackson trophy for the best play entered and written by a Canadian playwright.

This year plans will be made to assist groups to finance their trip to the city in which the festival will be held.

A cash award of $100 will go to the winning play and $1,000 to the winning play in the final festival to be held in Hamilton, Ont., during the week of May 10 to 15.

Missing Alaska Pilot Safe; Ran Short of Gasoline

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP) —Coast Guard searchers found a missing Alaska pilot and his family of three early Tuesday after their plane ran short of gasoline on a flight from Juneau.

The pilot was William Brennan, who was flying back from two years at the Bristol Bay village of Aleknegik. His wife and two children were with him.

VANCOUVER TV PROGRAMS IN NOVEMBER

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's 10,000 television set owners will be able to tune in their first Vancouver TV program about the middle of November, Peter McDonald, director of CBC-TV here, said Tuesday.

Filmed programs from here and eastern Canada will be used mainly in the temporary operations. "Live" shows won't go into production until permenant operations begin early in 1954 with completion of new studios.

Mr. McDonald said that even under the temporary arrangement, TV pictures will be "excellent" in Vancouver, good in Victoria and the Lower Mainland.

Playwright Eliot Produces Another British Stage Hit

EDINBURGH (CP)—Britain's mystic poet and playwright, T. S. Eliot, has another hit.

His latest play, "The Confidential Clerk," opened Tuesday night at the Lyceum Theatre in conjunction with the Edinburgh music festival and was greeted by tremendous applause.

The play has a lighter tone and more closely-knit plot than "The Cocktail Party," also introduced at Edinburgh, but carries the deep philosophic content which characterizes Eliot's work.

MANY STOWAWAYS

MONTREAL (CP) — With about three months of the navigation season still to go, the number of stowaways reaching Montreal on ocean vessels reached 23, more than double the number for all 1952. Only about two, who had proper papers but no money, were allowed to remain.

BAXTER CHIDES BEAVERBROOK

Journalist Blames Old Boss for Lack of Success

VANCOUVER (CP) — Beverley Baxter, journalist and member of the British House of Commons, said Tuesday that if he has failed to measure up to the expectations of Lord Beaverbrook, there is only one person to blame—Lord Beaverbrook.

On a tour of Canada, the journalist commented on a published statement by the newspaper peer that "Mr. Baxter has not enriched himself or the nation as his earlier promise indicated."

Both men are Canadian-born, and Mr. Baxter once was editor of The London Daily Express, owned by Lord Beaverbrook.

In jocular vein, Mr. Baxter declared: "He (Beaverbrook) if anyone, ruined my career.

"His energy was inexhaustible. I had to play tennis with him and when he would miss a serve he would toss his racket into the trees and call for another one.

"What he ever thought all this had to do with my journalistic career, I will never know.

"We would go riding and he would make me take notes. Did you ever take notes on a horse?"

Mr. Baxter was commenting on a preface by Lord Beaverbrook on his book "Success."

Lord Beaverbrook wrote of Baxter: "He lacks industry. He plays too much golf and canasta is the name of his card game."

Countered Baxter: "He would even drop in to play bridge — and I had been brought up a Methodist."

Man 'Confesses' Murdering Young Vancouver Boy Because of Vision

VANCOUVER. — The man who says he murdered seven-year-old Roddy Moore of Vancouver in 1947 "confessed" to city police because of a vision he had while sitting in a bus.

But is he the man who battered the schoolboy to death and left the body on a vacant lot?

After three days of probing the "totally confused" man, here is what Superintendent Fred Fish (recalled from Civil Defense duty because he worked on the original case) and Det.-Sgt. Ian MacGregor have to report:

The man, five feet nine inches tall, 146 pounds, comes from a good family in Eastern Canada. He says he is a cook and a war veteran.

He is believed to have been at large at the time of the murder. He went into a military hospital in the east in December, 1947.

He was admitted to Essondale in 1952 and was released from there early this year.

Authorities there say he was a good worker.

"It is up to us to find some sense in all the confusion — if we can," said the detectives today.

CAN'T SAY HOW

"He says that he was on a bus passing Twenty-fifth and Granville the other day and he had a flash and a vision, and thought that might be where the Moore murder was committed.

"He says he committed the murder. But he says, too, that he might have read the story in the newspapers years ago and that it has been on his mind for a long time."

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

It is pleasant to report a hand in which each side makes the best play at every turn. Unfortunately, however, few hands are played that well even in a very famous New York club. Everybody in the game was an experienced player, of course, and two of them were well-known experts.

The bidding was flawless. South got to a very reasonable contract and should have made it.

West opened the queen of clubs, holding the trick. If he had then switched to a trump, he could have made sure of defeating the contract. West was afraid, however, that South had the ace of diamonds — in case it would be vital for the defenders to take all possible tricks in the black suits before giving up the lead.

This was the kind of mistake that an expert might make. There was no way for West to know that South had spade strength rather than the ace of diamonds. When West continued with the jack of clubs at the second trick, South should have made his contract. South, however, found a way to make an inexpert mistake.

After ruffing the second round of clubs, South led a trump to dummy in order to lead a spade towards his own hand.

Opening lead—♣ Q

When South put up the king of spades, West won with the ace and made no further round of trumps. He led a second round of trumps, thus clearing out dummy's last trump. Now South had to lose a second spade trick in addition to a diamond and a club.

South's mistake, of course, is obvious. After ruffing the second round of clubs, South must immediately lead the king of spades. West can take the ace of spades and can lead one trump, but dummy still has a trump to ruff the third round of spades.

28a BUILDING SUPPLIES

Builders Sash & Door Ltd.

SOMETHING NEW and exclusive with our factory. The new masonite faced door, this flush type door is strong, rigid and makes an extra smooth finish on the face. Ideal for painting; assures you of lifetime satisfaction with no grain raising. Price is lower too, approximately $1.00 door less than plywood flush type doors.

MAHOGANY DOORS — New low price. Call and see the beautiful new mahogany doors, flush type precision made, a large range of sizes—and these doors sell exactly the same price as No. 1 fir doors.

$100 SAVE $100

in labor and materials on that next sash job. Order STANDARDIZED frames and windows. Come complete caps ready to install—no extra fitting or adding casings. Ideal for contractors and home builders—saves money, saves time.

The Texans are coming, hurray! hurray!
To steal poor Caddy away, away!
Up sluggard Victorians, look to your laurels,
The Texan will teach him awfully bad morals,
Down in the land of the neighing horse,
He will become progressively coarse!

CARROLL RIGHTER'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

THURSDAY, AUGUST 27, 1953

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) — You are excited about new avenues where you are able to express your special genius. To make the right investments, study well and act promptly. Have a good time in interesting ways.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Use your excess energy at this time to do needed repairing at home; all plumbing should be checked now. Try to eliminate discord by quiet attitude and work.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Take necessary trip to secure data you need to round out present ambitious undertaking. Accept invitations; get together with people able to zoom your desires upward.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Don't sit back and let your feelings be hurt at first rebuff by one important person or, demanding mate or comrade. Stick to your point, and you will gain real approval and respect.

LEO (July 22 to August 21)—You have the ideas and others have the money, experience and understanding. Team up with them to accomplish big results. Settle for nothing less than the most expansive.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 22) — Money, money, money keeps popping up all the time to take your attention. Forget less vital matters and concentrate quietly, then consult with experts who can give you a helping hand.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) — Dynamic colleague, aware of the real effort you are putting into worthwhile plan, consult with good friends as to the best way to support your efforts in a large way.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) — Make yourself most attractive and take the result of your many hours of work to one able to show you how to use it to your best advantage. Keep plugging with courage.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) — Your great desire for fun is all right, but there are also some interesting angles connected with it that bring new acquaintances into your life who will be good for you.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Your brilliance of thought, if you have followed your daily forecast, is now at its peak. Many exceptionally helpful conditions and persons add to your success. Be happy!

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Living your modern ideas plus your common-sense methods brings you lasting friendships, business or property success.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Pitching in with all you have on routine duties with medium of caution to avoid accidents, rips and tears makes this a banner day for achievement in all lines.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN THURSDAY . . .

Thursday's child is one of those peculiarly blessed individuals who will never be at a loss for an answer to any question or any situation that may confront him or her. It is therefore essential that you very early offer training that combines both theory and practice to reveal the best means for utilizing this unusual opportunity to its fullest advantage and making this world a better place in which to live.

U.S. DEPRESSION WOULD AID COMMUNISTS SAYS CIO CHIEF

TORONTO (BUP)—CIO President Walter Reuther warned Tuesday night that Communism could "take over most of the world by default" if the United States suffers a depression.

Reuther told the international convention of the Amalgamated Lithographers' Union his country seemed to feel it was helpless to avert a recession.

"There is no need for a depression," he said. "When we cut defense spending, it should be a time of great rejoicing, not great concern.

"There is something normally wrong with a nation that can mobilize all its resources and manpower for war and create full employment, but hasn't got the courage and economic know-how to do it in time of peace."

Names of 2 Canadian Flyer PWs Revealed

By BILL BOSS

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea (CP)—The names of two Canadians believed to be prisoners of the Communists in Korea were made known today.

They are Capt. Joseph Liston, of the Canadian Army, and Sqdn. Ldr. Andrew MacKenzie of the RCAF, a jet pilot.

Canadian prisoners of war exchanged Tuesday said possibly one army flier and one RCAF jet pilot were still in enemy hands.

Sqdn. Ldr. MacKenzie's wife lives in Strathmore, a suburb of Montreal. Air defense command at St. Hubert, Que., said Tuesday the only RCAF pilot missing is Sqdn. Ldr. MacKenzie. He was reported missing after action over Kuson last December 6.

Capt. Joseph Michael Liston of Aylmer, Que., has been included in Canadian casualty lists as a prisoner of war.

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Another 400 United Nations soldiers returned from North Korean stockades today, amid indications the Reds will send back some Americans handed jail terms and possibly more prisoners than they originally promised.

Two of 133 Americans who crossed into friendly hands today said some fellow Americans sentenced to prison for "instigating against the peace" were awaiting repatriation, possibly in a day or two, at Kaesong. Kaesong, just north of Panmunjom, is the Red holding point for Allied PoWs.

The apparent switch in the Communist attitude toward these prisoners followed protests by the UN command that the Reds were holding back dozens of men on trumped up charges.

At the Allied base camp at Munsan, UN command spokesmen said there would be no comment on the reported return of the jailed Americans.

Along with 133 Americans, the Reds returned 17 British and 250 South Koreans today, the 22nd day of the big exchange of war prisoners.

Canadian Bar Head Hits at Labor Laws

Perennial Freedom Threatened He Says

BOSTON (BUP)—Andre Taschereau, president of the Canadian Bar Association, today cited government agencies and restrictive labor legislation as threats to personal freedom.

In a speech prepared for the American Bar Association's jubilee convention here, Taschereau said administrative boards, in Canada at least, increasingly are replacing law courts "in very important matters."

He said there is no appeal from the boards' decisions even though judgments may have been rendered by a bare majority.

"The courts have . . . lost all control over them, and a gross miscarriage of justice may result to the parties thus deprived of the protection that has been afforded pleaders since time immemorial," Taschereau said.

Taschereau expressed concern at "restrictions that are imposed every year on the right of the individual to contract and bind himself according to his wishes."

"This applies specially to labor legislation," he said.

Lawyers, Taschereau said, should use their influence to ensure that restrictive labor legislation "is kept within the strict limits necessary to guarantee adequate legal justice."

BIG SWORDFISH

GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP)—Among the many swordfish being brought in by the fishing fleet in August was one giant weighing 540 pounds. Local dealers were paying about 25 cents a pound to fishermen.

NOTEBOOK SHIELD

NORTH SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—Police constable Gordon Carter says he perhaps owes his life to his notebook. The book took the force of the thrust when a prisoner attempted to stab him with a pocket knife.

Canada Will Delay Appointment of Envoy to Russia

OTTAWA (BUP)—No great haste will be shown in the expected appointment of a Canadian ambassador to Moscow, diplomatic sources said today.

A study of Russo-Canadian relationships for at least six months and a simultaneous search for the right man for the delicate job were certain to precede any announcement.

Cabinet consideration of Russia's conciliatory move in naming an ambassador to Ottawa for the first time in seven years could come September 9 but sources said it probably would be much later.

Although the government prides itself on the strength of the Canadian diplomatic service, men of the calibre needed for a Moscow appointment are not easy to find.

Two New Bridges Planned for Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Man. (BUP)—City public works committee Tuesday night approved a $7,392,540 bridge construction program for Winnipeg. It will involve building two new bridges.

One bridge is planned to span the Assiniboine River (at Hargrave St.,) and the other will span the Red River (at Disraeli St.)

The city's share of the program will be about $6,892,540, and ratepayers are to be asked to approve the project in a money bylaw at the October 28 civic election.

Korea Guerrillas Fight Among Selves

SEOUL (AP) — Communist guerrillas in South Korea's mountains are fighting among themselves as a result of the North Korean purge of ultra nationalist Reds, the Republic of Korea home ministry reported today. Some guerrillas were reported killed in fighting between the two factions—pro-Russians and nationalist North Koreans.

SOVIET BLACKMAIL FEARED

Britain Transfers Atom Scientist to New Job

LONDON (UP)—A Russian-born atom scientist was removed from his post at Britain's secret Harwell Atomic Laboratory today and newspapers said the action was taken to prevent the Soviets from "blackmailing" him for top secret information through threats to his family in Russia.

The Ministry of Supply said the scientist, Dr. Boris Davison, is not under suspicion of having leaked top secret information to the Russians.

Davison, the ministry said, has been transferred from Harwell to the mathematical physics research staff at Birmingham University in the industrial Midlands.

Davison himself was not available for comment and his immediate whereabouts was not disclosed.

It could not be learned whether the transfer was made at his own or at the government's request or whether any actual blackmail threats had been made against him by Soviet agents.

Davison was born in the Soviet union of a British father and a Russian mother. He is married to a Russian wife who is with him in England.

OWN MONEY?

Robbed Man Sues Bank For $1,000

RENO (AP)—Reno millionaire La Vere Redfield sued the First National Bank of Nevada Tuesday, claiming that when he cashed a $50,000 cheque last May he was handed a $1,000 bill stolen in the bizarre "million dollar robbery" of his mansion last year.

Redfield filed suit in district court for the $1,000. He said one of the 50 big bills he got when he cashed a cheque last May 27 bore the same number as one of the notes stolen from his mansion Feb. 29, 1952.

E. J. Questam, president of the bank, said the institution "at first was on guard against bills on the list, but after a year or so—considering the many robbery lists—in order to do business, we simply couldn't be that careful." The bank's position, he told a reporter, "is that we have no way of knowing whether we gave Redfield that particular bill or not."

Redfield claimed from $1,350,000 to $2,400,000 in stocks, jewels and cash was taken by an intruder who stopped to toss the watchdog a hambone. The Federal Bureau of Investigation has recovered $130,000 to $140,000 of an estimated $278,000 in cash.

Mrs. Jeanne "Orc Michaud, French-Canadian divorcee, of Ste. Agathe, Que., is serving a five-year prison term as the brains behind the robbery.

EXPERT THIEF

COBURG, Ont. (CP)—An 800-pound steer was killed and butchered in a pasture near here by a thief who escpaed with all the carcass, even to the hide. Only the head and hooves were left. The animal was valued at around $175.

Chimpanzees, generally regarded as the smartest of the apes, can master simple arithmetic, apparently recognize photographs of themselves, and learn table manners, including use of cup and saucer, knife and fork.

Car Accident Takes Life of B.C. Newsman

CRESTON (CP) — Ernest Moss, 70, of Chilliwack, a retired weekly newspaper publisher, died in an automobile accident near here Monday night while driving to his former home in Kimberley for a holiday.

He was killed when his car struck a soft shoulder seven miles north of here and rolled 30 feet down an enbankment. His wife received undetermined injuries and was brought to hospital in Creston.

For 17 years, until his retirement last year, Mr. Moss was publisher of the Kimberley News. He came to B.C. in 1909 and started his newspaper career in Anyox, 90 miles north of Prince Rupert, then settled in Kimberley after 23 years in the north.

Koksilah Indian School Problem Appears Settled

DUNCAN—School District 65 has decided to take over responsibility of schooling 13 Indian children in the Koksilah district.

In accepting the task, the board said the children could not be placed in existing schools because of the lack of space and transportation.

It added, though, that if the old Koksilah Indian school could be brought into the district, then the board could provide a teacher and thus educate the youngsters.

The request regarding the children was made by the Indian affairs department office in Duncan when the Koksilah school was closed in the early summer. Catholic children were transferred to their appropriate school at Cowichan Bay, but 13 Protestant children were left without a school.

Lord Rodney, British admiral who died in 1792, rose to captain's rank after 10 years' service.

CANADA HOSTS WORLD SCOUT PARLEY IN '55

MONTREAL (CP) — The next world scout jamboree and international world scout conference in 1955 will be held for the first time in Canada, Maj.-Gen. D. C. Spry, chief executive commissioner of Canadian boy scouts, said in an interview Tuesday night.

Gen. Spry returned with Jackson Dodds, deputy chief scout of Canada, from the recent international scout conference in Lichtenstein.

He said the site of the jamboree will be chosen later.

Building Permit Record for Year Set by Nanaimo

NANAIMO — Value of building permits for both residential and commercial construction issued here by the end of this month now promises to top 1952's 12-month total of $976,-965.

While no definite figures on value of the Simpson-Sears and Safeway new stores are yet available, it is believed they will run well over $500,000 each.

The year 1952 set a record in dwelling construction here when permits were issued for new housing units representing a value of $613,930.

Next highest figure in residence building permits was 1950's $220,290. In depression years dwelling construction ran between $60,000 and $70,000 annually.

Animal Food Plant Closure Irks Union

VANCOUVER (CP)—The CIO United Packinghouse Workers of America plans to protest to Richmond council the closure of the Vancouver Rendering Works plant in Richmond, where 50 of its members are employed.

"An injustice is being done," union business agent Bill Symington said Tuesday. "The union feels the company hasn't been given a fair try. In its efforts to date the company has spent $27,000 and it would seem the odor has been drastically reduced.

"Furthermore, our investigation up to now convinces us that it is not a mass movement by the residents, but is a personal issue between certain people in the company.

"Fifty workers have been given their notices of dismissal. And unless council gives sufficient consideration to their protest, council is liable to find itself picketed."

GOOD CATCH

HALIFAX (CP)—Two young fishermen of Hubbards got a happy surprise when they found their nets packed with 400 young bluefin tuna. It was the biggest single day's catch in years along St. Margaret's Bay.

PAINLESS CHILDBIRTH

Mothers Trained In Self-Hypnosis

BY SONIA YOUNG

LONDON (Reuters) — Young mothers-to-be are being taught self-hypnosis at one of London's largest hospitals to prepare them for painless childbirth.

The method has been used successfully here for more than three years, but still is in a more or less experimental stage.

At the hospital seven expectant young women are taking regular lessons from a specialist whose name must remain secret for professional reasons.

In about 10 sessions during the last six weeks of pregnancy, the women are taught how to relax, then are hypnotized and finally taught how to put themselves into a trance.

The specialist said today self-hypnosis "is really an extension of the ordinary relaxation coasses given to mothers under the normal ante-natal care system."

"First of all," he said, "the whole phsiological process of childbirth is explained to her. When she understands what is happening, it is easier for her to relax.

"Once she has the art of relaxation it needs only a word from a doctor or a midwife to put her in a trance. Eventually she can put herself in a trance.

"She is also given the ability to remain asleep for a certain time, and she will wake up again at the end of that time automatically.

Little River Meets Mother Ocean

Police Probe 11th Sawmill Fire in B.C.

Fourth Mill Burns In Fraser Valley

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Fire officials and police doubled their efforts to locate a suspected arsonist today following the fourth sawmill fire to break out along the Fraser River here within a month, the 11th in the province this summer.

A raging fire Tuesday night destroyed the Sunset sawmill and caused damage estimated around $50,000.

The Fraser district fire could be seen from most high points in the city. Firemen attempted in vain to learn cause of the blaze but got nowhere.

A firebug was being sought in connection with the three previous blazes, but no clues had been uncovered.

Fisherman Jack Wilson spotted last night's one-alarm blaze while he was tending his boat in the Fraser River. Nearby residents reported smelling smoke for some time before the flames shot skyward.

The mill, operated by the Mielke Brothers Trucking Co., had been shut down for a lay-off, but was scheduled to reopen soon.

JET TAKES OFF, LANDS FROM BELLY OF BOMBER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Air Force says it has fitted the long-range B36 bomber for a new role:

Taking off with an F84 jet plane in its cavernous belly, carrying it to within striking distance of a target, releasing the fighter for a strike, at more than 600 miles an hour, and then recovering it in midair.

The air force Tuesday released for the first time photographs of the B36 in its mother role.

Other sources pointed out that if the big bomber can launch a fighter plane it should be able to launch guided missiles. Moreover, both the B36 and the F84 have been described by the defense department as capable of carrying atomic bombs.

Would Have Final Say on Hydro Job

By GORDON FORBES

The provincial government will hire an expert on soil mechanics to act as consultant in making the final decision on damming of Buttle Lake.

The engineer would act as advisor to E. H. Tedcroft, water comptroller, who must approve plans being prepared by the B.C. Power Commission before construction can start.

The power commission has been under fire on the editorial pages of British Columbia newspapers since a slide wiped out the power station and switching station at the commission's Whatshan project on the Arrow Lakes.

The move to strengthen engineering advice on Buttle Lake is seen as reaction to criticism of the Whatshan mishap.

The B.C. Power Commission has been granted a license to dam Buttle Lake, but first must prove to the water comptroller that the proposed dam site is feasible. Drill testing on the site is now being carried out by Engineering Drillers Ltd. of Vancouver, on behalf of the commission.

Drilling is expected to be completed about the end of September.

The commission will then present its plans and specifications for the dam to Mr. Tredcroft.

Commission Engineers Confident

Although power commission engineers are generally confident that geological drilling will show Buttle Lake can be dammed, the commission will make no decision regarding the feasibility of a dam until a complete report on drill tests is received.

This has been a sore point with the conservationists, who have protested that the rock formation at the dam site is not suitable for dam construction. They contend any dam built there will suffer from excessive seepage.

The commission will have to look elsewhere for a water storage basin if the comptroller rules thaat a dam is not feasible.

If Mr. Tredcroft gives the commission the go-ahead signal, the commission will then decide, after consultation with its consulting engineers, H. G. Acres & Co. of Niagara Falls, whether the dam should be built under a single contract, under several contracts, or by the commission itself.

A green light for the project will mean that the commission must start immediate construction of a public access road to the dam site. Surveys are now being made. This is one of the conditions of the license.

A short jeep road to service the camp at the dam site has already been built, but is not open to the public.

WEST 'WRECKING PARLEY'

Vishinsky Spikes Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—Russian delaying tactics today forced postponement of the crucial United Nations vote on arrangements for the Korean political conference as Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky accused the West of planning in advance to wreck the parley.

The General Assembly's 60-nation political committee was on the verge of starting its vote when Vishinsky asked for more time to express the Soviet position, already expounded in two previous speeches. Denied a delay, the veteran Kremlin mouthpiece delivered a 37-minute tirade against the West that killed chances of a vote today.

Committee Chairman Joao Carlos Muniz kept the group in session without a lunch break, and then agreed to adjourn because many of the members were scheduled to attend a security council meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Vishinsky accused the Western Powers of preparing an ultimatum to Communist China and North Korea and of "already wrecking" the conference "before it begins."

"There has been no unconditional surrender," he shouted and added, his voice heavy with scorn:

"Do you think you have been victorious?"

Vishinsky's outburst came after the Russians sought to avoid an aggressor brand in an invitation to the conference and attempted, in an obvious parliamentary manoeuver to substitute Moscow's Communist-stacked slate for the line-up of by the Western Powers.

U.S., Britain Talk Possible Aid to Iran

LONDON (UP)—The United States and Great Britain are consulting on the question of aiding Iran in response to the urgent request of its new Royalist government, the foreign office said today.

The consultations is being held through the normal diplomatic channels between Washington and London.

TEHRAN, Iran (UP) — U.S. Ambassador Loy W. Henderson called on Iranian Premier Fazollah Zahedi today and an embassy spokesman said they "discussed all mutual outstanding problems."

The embassy said the U.S. Point Four program would be continued, giving Iran $23,500,000 this year and possibly more money for developing projects.

Informed Iranian sources said that Iran might receive an additional $30,000,000 under the Point Four program.

Long Distance Phone Stoppage Threatens U.S.

NEW YORK (UP) — CIO communications workers threatened to quit work at noon today at the nation's long-distance and overseas telephone exchanges.

The unauthorized walkout by 22,000 long lines employees seeking higher wages would affect long-distance service in 40 states and overseas switchboards at New York, San Francisco and Miama.

Officials of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said service would be maintained by supervisory personnel if union members carry out their threat. The union is demanding a $3.50 a week general wage increase.

Gales, Snow Beat U.S. Bid To Climb K-2

BOMBAY, India (UP)—Bitter gales and blinding snow have defeated an American attempt to climb 28,250-foot Mount Godwin Austen (K-2), the world's second-highest peak, it was revealed today.

Reports reaching Bombay said the Americans, led by Dr. Charles Houston of Concord, Mass., gave up only after struggling to within 2,250 feet of the summit of "the unclimbable mountain." No man has ever scaled Godwin Austen.

Buffeted by 72-mile-an-hour gales and whirling snow, they clung grimly to their perilous perch until they were exhausted.

Then, with the first break in the weather, Dr. Houston was said to have ordered a retreat down the treacherous slope.

Times Reporter, Partner Fight Slash to Open West Coast Trek

(Times Reporter Humphry Davy and a Queen's Scout companion, West Umphrey, have just completed a nine-day exploration tour afoot along the route of the proposed West Coast road. Sponsored by the Victoria Times, the pair set out with a view to ascertaining the feasibility of the road project, to familiarize themselves with the contours and scenery of what is almost an unknown country and to report. This is the second of a series of stories of their adventure.)

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff Reporter

A large map of Vancouver Island was spread out on a table.

"See that trail," said a government engineer, running a thick finger along a dotted line which extended from Jordan River to Bamfield. "That is the route you are going to travel and which people hope some day will be a West Coast road."

The trail, we were informed, was built for a federal government telephone line which runs from Bamfield to Victoria. It is still maintained by linesmen, except for the section between Jordan River and Port Renfrew. This section was abandoned two years ago and the line now runs through a new route which comes out near Shawnigan Lake.

So, with only meagre information about the trail, on Friday, Aug. 14, West Umphrey and I set off for Jordan River. We carried a total of 75 pounds in pack sacks. This included grub, sleeping bag, a tent and other camping articles.

TEN MILES SHORTER

When we arrived at Jordan River we were surprised to learn that a logging road now runs for several miles along the site of the old trail. The road stretches to within three miles of Loss Creek, which is about the half-way mark between Jordan River and Port Renfrew. This meant that we only had to walk about 14 miles to reach Port Renfrew, instead of 24.

We were lucky to run into Don Smith, superintendent of the Canadian Puget Sound Lumber and Timber Co. Ltd. The friendly logger drove us to the end of the logging road.

Mr. Smith got out of his logging truck and pointed to some logging slash. "You will find the trail at the end of that," he said.

What we saw was enough to dampen the ardour of any hiker. Twisted timber, stumps, limbs of trees lay in a chaotic heap. The debris appeared to extend for some distance.

We began to work our way through this maze of timber and for the first time I knew how a fly felt in a spider's web. At times we thought we would never get out of the slash. We went over and under logs and poked our way through narrow openings in the debris. Progress was slow. A blazing sun and heavy packs added to our discomfort.

Finally we spotted a blazed trail and without giving the matter much thought took it. Perhaps we were a little too keen to get out of the slash. At any rate, the trail went up a steep slope and after about an hour's climb we reached a height of about 1,200 feet.

We decided to check our position with a compass and map and discovered that if we continued on the trail we would eventually turn up at Lake Cowichan. There was only one thing to do, return to the logging slash.

TRAIL AT LAST

Another hour of scrambling through slash brought us to the trail we were searching for. From here to Loss Creek we found the walking excellent. We passed many giant cedars and spotted several deer, bear and cougar tracks.

At Loss Creek we were impressed with the high precipices which flank the river. We climbed a steep slope of the canyon and continued on our way to Sombrio River, our next stop. Our chief diffciulty was in following the right trail. The map showed only one trail, but we ran across several others. This confused us to some extent. We finally had to trust to our sense of direction.

Late in the afternoon we arrived at a sign post which directed us to take the trail to the right to reach the Sombrio River and Port Renfrew. The government map showed the trail leading to the left. We placed our trust in the signpost. Our decision proved a right one for within a half hour we reached the Sombrio River.

Up to now, we had not come across any great obstacle which could stand in the way of building a road along this section of the coast. The Loss Creek canyon would require a fairly large bridge. Otherwise the terrain differed little from the topography of the east coast of the island.

We wondered what lay beyond the Sombrio, which incidently was a disappointment as a river.

We decided to spend the night in an old linesman's cabin at the mouth of the Sombrio, and to travel the last lap to Port Renfrew the next day.

Naden Band Leads 5-Mile PNE Parade

VANCOUVER — A drizzle killed most of the dazzle, but the Pacific National Exhibition got under way here today with the HMCS Naden band leading the five-mile 117-unit parade through downtown streets.

Vancouverites turned out in thousands, sheltered under umbrellas and morning newspapers.

The navy is taking a major part in this year's exhibition. Five ships of the RCN Pacific Coast command steamed into port Tuesday. They were the cruiser Ontario, destroyer Sioux, frigates Beacon Hill and Antigonish and minesweeper Sault Ste. Marie.

The Sioux blazed with decorative lights Tuesday night, the same ones she had worn to thrill watchers at the Coronation Spithead review.

Tonight the huge PNE midway will compete with the Shrine Circus in the forum, the Hobby Show, tri-service exhibits, manufacturer's and livestock displays in an effort to break opening day records.

Victoria was represented at the 2.30 p.m. opening by Mayor Claude Harrison. Esquimalt's reeve, A. E. Wurtele, also attended.

Prettiest Victorian at the PNE will be Eleanor Anderson, 18-year-old Miss Victoria in the Miss PNE contest. She arrives by air Sunday. The long-tressed Liquor Control Board steno will appear nightly on the PNE outdoor stage.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Robert Barkdoll, 25, was fined $10 for holding hands with a girl Tuesday. He was driving one car, and the girl was riding in another.

LATEST IN EUROPE CRIME WAVE

$285,700 in Cash, Gems Taken From Riviera Hotel

ST. TROPEZ, France (UP)—Two bandits held up a swank resort hotel here today and escaped with jewels and cash which police said were valued at 100,000,000 francs ($285,700).

Police said the hotel was held up at pistol point in the early morning hours.

The robbery was the latest in a series of crimes in Europe in one of which a gang of bandits recently robbed the Hohenzollern castle in Germany of the Prussian crown jewels.

Police said most of the cash, in French and foreign banknotes, and most of the jewels, were taken from the office safe of the "Ayoli" Hotel where they had been deposited by French and foreign tourists.

The bandits, both masked, drove up to the hotel shortly after midnight.

Police said the men scaled a wall and entered the room of the owner, Mrs. Suzanne Clos.

They forced her into the hotel office at pistol ponit and ordered her to open the safe.

Before escaing, they bound and gagged Madame Clos and cut the hotel telephone lines.

A nation-wide manhunt for the bandits was ordered shortly after the hotel owner freed herself and notified authorities of the robbery. Police said her description of the bandits was "skimpy" because of the masks they wore and the darkness.

Tory Convention In November Rumored

OTTAWA (BUP)—A general meeting of the Progressive Conservative Party Association "possibly" will be held here in November, President George Nowlan said Tuesday.

He said there was no urgency about the get-together, and he denied there was any "crisis" within the party.

New Clues in Search For Missing Oilman

SMITHERS, B.C. (BUP) — A search for an oilman's plane, missing nine days and carrying five persons, centred around this northern town today following fresh leads from district residents and a para-rescue team was ordered to stand by.

The RCAF said 30 planes had been put into the international search for New Mexico oilman Ellis Hall, his wife and two daughters and a teen-aged friend, Patrick Hibbens.

Two women reported hearing an aircraft in trouble 25 miles west of here last Monday, the day Hall's DeHavilland Dove disappeared while flying from Alaska to Washington state. The area is dominated by Mount Sir Robert, a 9,000-foot peak.

Two loggers confirmed the reports. They said the sound of a twin-engined plane stopped suddenly in the direction of the giant peak in the Rockies.

A U.S. para-rescue team left McChord Field near Tacoma, Wash., for Prince George, B.C., in the interior, where it will stand by waiting to jump to the crash scene if the air force locates it.

Meanwhile, there was no word from a ground search party trekking out of Stewart, B.C., to the wreckage of a light aircraft believed to be that of Bush Pilot Herman Peterson who disappeared Thursday.

CHURCHILL, Man. (BUP)—Crews of 14 RCAF aircraft fretted today as heavy cloud and fog rolled in from Hudson Bay, stalling the search for a Lancaster bomber missing in northern Manitoba for four days. Eight crewmen were aboard it.

Bob Fleming Reaches Fourth Round in Golf

MONTREAL (BUP) — The 49th Canadian amateur golf tournament moved through its third round without an upset today with top Canadians and visiting British Walker Cuppers keeping up their unbeaten strings intact.

Gerry Kesselring of Kitchner, Ont., considered Canada's top threat for the title, disposed of Willie Budd of Winnipeg, 3 and 2, and a fellow townsman, Gord Ball, defeated Dick Moore, Vancouver, Vancouver, 1 up.

Bob Fleming, of Victoria, won his third round match from Mike Darling of Montreal 1 up.

Don Cherry of Dallas, Tex., the only member of the United States Walker Cup team here, moved into the fourth round with a 6 and 5 win over Ted Homeniuk, 17, the Saskatchewan junior champion from Yorkton.

British amateur champion Joe Carr, who had drawn a bye in the third round, was nevertheless summoned from a practice green to play Frank Mailley of Allview, Md. Carr won 5 and 4.

Other British Walker Cup players who finished early turned in third-round victories.

They included Norman Drew, the Irish junior champion, who downed A. G. Peterson, Fitchburg, Mass., 3 and 2; J. D. Langley who beat A. Tessier of Quebec City, 1 up; Reg. White who defeated Tommy Riddell of Montreal, 6 and 5; and Lt.-Col. A. D. A. Duncan of Wales who ousted Rex Joudey of Dartmouth, N.S., 6 and 5.

MONTREAL (CP) — Air transport command headquarters at Lachine announced today that an RCAF C-119 "flying boxcar" transport has left Boston with eight iron lungs for Winnipeg.

GREAT ZOMB WAKES GIRL BY TELEPHONE

BANFF, Alta. (BUP)—Nineteen-year-old waitress Betty Black of Nelson, B.C., came out of a four-day hypnotic trance today after RCMP located "The Great Doctor Zomb" and he treated her by telephone.

Miss Black was hypnotized during a stage show here last Saturday. She failed to come out of her trance, and baffled medical attendants said she had "a consuming desire to sleep."

Doctor Zomb was found by the RCMP Tuesday at Wainwright, Alta., 125 miles east of Edmonton. After contacting Banff physician Dr. A. Costigan, the hypnotist treated Miss Black by telephone.

FIRST TWO TRIES NOT SUCCESSFUL

Piccard Takes Weird Craft Down Below Sea 3,447 Feet

NAPLES, Italy (Reuter's)—Professor Auguste Piccard rode his weird undersea craft more than 3,000 feet down into the Mediterranean here today in a test for an attempt on the world diving record.

The test was the third try he made today. Two earlier attempts were not successful.

But on the third attempt the professor and his son, Jacques, reported they had reached 1,050 metres (3,447 feet).

Piccard denied earlier reports from the Italian corvette Fenice which claimed success for the first dive.

He would not tell reporters what prevented a full workout on the first two dives. He stayed under for 20 minutes the first time and only three minutes on the second.

Two weeks ago, two French naval officers set a record off Toulon when they dived to 6,896 feet in a Piccard-designed bathyscaphe.

The previous record—3,028 feet—was set up in 1934 by the American scientist William Beebe in his bathysphere off the Galapagos Islands in the Pacific.

Piccard's vessel looks a little like an undersea version of a dirigible. A round steel ball with a single cyclops-eye porthole contains the two men. It is suspended under a large cigar shaped tank full of oil. The buoyancy of the oil keeps the craft on an even keel and floats it up to surface after ballast weights have been dumped.

The whole thing is completely free of any lines to the surface and can move around by means of electrically-driven propellers.

The 69-year-old professor and his son had traveled all night from Castellamare in the Bay of Naples, at an agonizing two miles an hour, as their towing vessel ploughed out under a brilliant full moon with their submarine-like craft wallowing in its wake.

Three More Manitoba Polio Deaths

WINNIPEG (CP)—Poliomyelitis has claimed another three lives in Manitoba, bringing to 28 the total deaths so far this year, only two short of 1952's 30 polio fatalities.

Manitoba health offiials today also said 43 ne cases had been reported, shooting the case total up to 1,098, now well above the previous record of 1,011 cases in 1941.

U.S. Living Costs at All-Time High

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government reported today that the cost of living climbed to a new all-time peak in mid-July. This means an estimated 1,000,000 auto workers will get an automatic wage increase of one cent an hour.

B.C. Fishermen Urged to Oust Leaders

VANCOUVER (CP)—R. K. Gervin, Vancouver, the new western vice-president of the Trades and Labor Congress, today called on the membership of United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union to reject its leaders and return the UFAWU to the fold of Canada's largest labor organization.

The big B.C. union was suspended from the TLC last Friday until "Communist leadership and leanings" are cleaned out of the 5,000-member organization.

Judge Upholds B.C. Labor Board

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice Davey gave the labor relations board the green light Tuesday to conduct a vote among the 250 workers of Vancouver Iron Works to decide the bargaining agent for their two plants.

The Supreme Court judge turned down the application of United Steelworkers of America (CIO) for an order prohibiting the board from certifying International Association of Machinists as bargaining agents for the two plants involved.

BRADLEY URGES JOINT U.S.-CANADA FORCES

Suggests Premier, President Confer

NEW YORK (CP)—General Omar Bradley called today for formation of a continental defense command to include the navies, armies and air forces of Canada and the United States and suggested a top-level meeting between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister St. Laurent to work it out.

Gen. Bradley said at present there is a cordial working relationship between the military leaders of the two countries, but the time has come for clear agreements at the highest level. The issues are too large and time too pressing for "us to let this drift along in routine negotiation."

RECENTLY RETIRED

Bradley, who recently retired as chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff, made the suggestion in the concluding article of a series he wrote for the Saturday Evening Post dealing with U.S. defense.

General Bradley urges the pushing of aerial defenses, including radar warning networks, northward into Canada "as fast as we can without leaving gaps or holes for the enemy to play tricks in." As defenses move north "the navy must extend the watch on the ocean flanks."

He suggests the recruiting of battalions equipped with the U.S. army's new anti-aircraft weapon, the Nike, a guided missile named for the Greek godess of victory. It is described as capable of reaching higher than any known bomber can fly.

At Ottawa, defense officials declined to comment.

No Dam Action Until Report

Government to Gain Additional Advice on Buttle Lake Project

By GORDON FORBES

The provincial government will hire an expert on soil mechanics to act as consultant in making the final decision on damming of Buttle Lake.

The engineer would act as advisor to E. H. Tedcroft, water comptroller, who must approve plans being prepared by the B.C. Power Commission before construction can start.

The power commission has been under fire on the editorial pages of British Columbia newspapers since a slide wiped out the power station and switching station at the commission's Whatshan project on the Arrow Lakes.

The move to strengthen engineering advice on Buttle Lake is seen as reaction to criticism of the Whatshan mishap.

The B.C. Power Commission has been granted a license to dam Buttle Lake, but first must prove to the water comptroller that the proposed dam site is feasible. Drill testing on the site is now being carried out by Engineering Drillers Ltd. of Vancouver, on behalf of the commission.

Drilling is expected to be completed about the end of September.

The commission will then present its plans and specifications for the dam to Mr. Tredcroft.

Commission Engineers Confident

Although power commission engineers are generally confident that geological drilling will show Buttle Lake can be dammed, the commission will make no decision regarding the feasibility of a dam until a complete report on drill tests is received.

This has been a sore point with the conservationists, who have protested that the rock formation at the dam site is not suitable for dam construction. They contend any dam built there will suffer from excessive seepage.

The commission will have to look elsewhere for a water storage basin if the comptroller rules that a dam is not feasible.

If Mr. Tredcroft gives the commission the go-ahead signal, the commission will then decide, after consultation with its consulting engineers, H. G. Acres & Co. of Niagara Falls, whether the dam should be built under a single contract, under several contracts, or by the commission itself.

A green light for the project will mean that the commission must start immediate construction of a public access road to the dam site. Surveys are now being made. This is one of the conditions of the license.

A short jeep road to service the camp at the dam site has already been built, but is not open to the public.

Police Probe 11th Sawmill Fire in B.C.

Fourth Mill Burns In Fraser Valley

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Fire officials and police doubled their efforts to locate a suspected arsonist today following the fourth sawmill fire to break out along the Fraser River here within a month, the 11th in the province this summer.

A raging fire Tuesday night destroyed the Sunset sawmill and caused damage estimated around $50,000.

The Fraser district fire could be seen from most high points in the city. Firemen attempted in vain to learn cause of the blaze but got nowhere.

A firebug was being sought in connection with the three previous blazes, but no clues had been uncovered.

Fisherman Jack Wilson spotted last night's one-alarm blaze while he was tending his boat in the Fraser River. Nearby residents reported smelling smoke for some time before the flames shot skyward.

The mill, operated by the Mielke Brothers Trucking Co., had been shut down for a layoff, but was scheduled to reopen soon.

Fleming Beaten 1 Up By U.S. Cup Golfer

MONTREAL (CP) — Bob Fleming of Victoria was eliminated today in the fourth round of the Canadian amateur golf championship at the Kanawaki Golf Club when he lost a 1-up verdict to one of the tournament favorites, Don Cherry of Wichita Falls, Tex.

Cherry, only member of the United States Walker Cup team competing in the Canadian amateur and a well-known crooner, birdied the 16th and 17th holes to oust Fleming, last B.C. contender in the tournament.

In the third round Fleming defeated Mike Darling of Montreal 1 up. Dick Moore, Vancouver, was beaten 1 up by Gordon Ball, Winnipeg, in the third round.

Another top Canadian contender fell when Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Ont., was defeated 3 and 2 by Jimmy Wilson of Scotland, a member of Britain's Walker Cup team.

E. D. Meister of Cleveland defeated Keith Alexander of Calgary 2 and 1.

The veteran Frank Strafaci of Garden City, N.Y., defeated Britain's Ronnie White 1 up.

Cherry's victory over Fleming was his second of the day over an opponent from western Canada. In his third-round match this morning he easily disposed of Saskatchewan junior champion Ted Homeniuk of Yorkton, 6 and 5.

Naden Band Leads 5-Mile PNE Parade

VANCOUVER — A drizzle killed most of the dazzle, but the Pacific National Exhibition got under way here today with the HMCS Naden band leading the five-mile 117-unit parade through downtown streets.

Vancouverites turned out in thousands, sheltered under umbrellas and morning newspapers.

The navy is taking a major part in this year's exhibition. Five ships of the RCN Pacific Coast command steamed into port Tuesday. They were the cruiser Ontario, destroyer Sioux, frigates Beacon Hill and Antigonish and minesweeper Sault Ste. Marie.

City Police Rush Tot to Hospital

City police were called this afternoon to rush two-year-old Michael Grice, 550 David Street, to hospital when his mother feared he had swallowed some quicklime. An antidote and necessary treatment was provided by St. Joseph's Hospital emergency ward, and the child allowed to go home. Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Grice.

WEST 'WRECKING PARLEY'

Vishinsky Spikes Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—Russian delaying tactics today forced postponement of the crucial United Nations vote on arrangements for the Korean political conference as Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky accused the West of planning in advance to wreck the parley.

The General Assembly's 60-nation political committee was on the verge of starting its vote when Vishinsky asked for more time to express the Soviet position, already expounded in two previous speeches. Denied a delay, the veteran Kremlin mouthpiece delivered a 37-minute tirade against the West that killed chances of a vote today.

Committee Chairman Joao Carlos Muniz kept the group in session without a lunch break, and then agreed to adjourn because many of the members were scheduled to attend a security council meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Vishinsky accused the Western Powers of preparing an ultimatum to Communist China and North Korea and of "already wrecking" the conference "before it begins."

"There has been no unconditional surrender," he shouted and added, his voice heavy with scorn:

"Do you think you have been victorious?"

Vishinsky's outburst came after the Russians sought to avoid an aggressor brand in an invitation to the conference and attempted, in an obvious parliamentary manoeuver to substitute Moscow's Communist-stacked slate for the line-up of by the Western Powers.

Gales, Snow Beat U.S. Bid To Climb K-2

BOMBAY, India (UP)—Bitter gales and blinding snow have defeated an American attempt to climb 28,250-foot Mount Godwin Austen (K-2), the world's second-highest peak, it was revealed today.

Reports reaching Bombay said the Americans, led by Dr. Charles Houston of Concord, Mass., gave up only after struggling to within 2,250 feet of the summit of "the unclimbable mountain." No man has ever scaled Godwin Austen.

Buffeted by 72-mile-an-hour gales and whirling snow, they clung grimly to their perilous perch until they were exhausted.

Then, with the first break in the weather, Dr. Houston was said to have ordered a retreat down the treacherous slope.

Long Distance Phone Stoppage Threatens U.S.

NEW YORK (UP) — CIO communications workers threatened to quit work at noon today at the nation's long-distance and overseas telephone exchanges.

The unauthorized walkout by 22,000 long lines employees seeking higher wages would affect long-distance service in 40 states and overseas switchboards at New York, San Francisco and Miama.

Officials of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said service would be maintained by supervisory personnel if union members carry out their threat. The union is demanding a $3.50 a week general wage increase.

GREAT ZOMB WAKES GIRL BY TELEPHONE

BANFF, Alta. (BUP)—Nineteen-year-old waitress Betty Black of Nelson, B.C., came out of a four-day hypnotic trance today after RCMP located "The Great Doctor Zomb" and he treated her by telephone.

Miss Black was hypnotized during a stage show here last Saturday. She failed to come out of her trance, and baffled medical attendants said she had "a consuming desire to sleep."

Doctor Zomb was found by the RCMP Tuesday at Wainwright, Alta., 125 miles east of Edmonton. After contacting Banff physician Dr. A. Costigan, the hypnotist treated Miss Black by telephone.

FIRST TWO TRIES NOT SUCCESSFUL

Piccard Takes Weird Craft Down Below Sea 3,447 Feet

NAPLES, Italy (Reuter's)—Professor Auguste Piccard rode his weird undersea craft more than 3,000 feet down into the Mediterranean here today in a test for an attempt on the world diving record.

The test was the third try he made today. Two earlier attempts were not successful.

But on the third attempt the professor and his son, Jacques, reported they had reached 1,050 metres (3,447 feet).

Piccard denied earlier reports from the Italian corvette Fenice which claimed success for the first dive.

He would not tell reporters what prevented a full workout on the first two dives. He stayed under for 20 minutes the first time and only three minutes on the second.

Two weeks ago, two French naval officers set a record off Toulon when they dived to 6,896 feet in a Piccard-designed bathyscaphe.

The previous record—3,028 feet—was set up in 1934 by the American scientist William Beebe in his bathysphere off the Galapagos Islands in the Pacific.

Piccard's vessel looks a little like an undersea version of a dirigible. A round steel ball with a single cyclops-eye porthole contains the two men. It is suspended under a large cigar shaped tank full of oil. The buoyancy of the oil keeps the craft on an even keel and floats it up to surface after ballast weights have been dumped.

The whole thing is completely free of any lines to the surface and can move around by means of electrically-driven propellers.

The 69-year-old professor and his son had traveled all night from Castellamare in the Bay of Naples, at an agonizing two miles an hour, as their towing vessel ploughed out under a brilliant full moon with their submarine-like craft wallowing in its wake.
